The old building bulges and traffic overflows.

Our theme is the last year at I.J.H.S. as a combined junior and senior high school. Our memories of the year are vivid. How we froze between the main building and the annex on those cold winter days! By next September this temporary addition will have been torn down, and freshmen will happily have their home-rooms in the big building. We remember the bubble which developed in the gym floor last fall and the puncturing it received by two of our janitors. Soon after the repair many enthusiasts were seen in the gym seven class periods a day and during the two lunch hours. We can never forget the breathless crowding of the halls during every change of classes. Lucky have been the students who found a big football player in front of them, running interference through hordes and fire doors. The year's scarcely ended, yet these shared experiences have already cemented our friendships and our feelings to old I.J.H.S.

1780 students, limited

An average day at I.J.H.S. involves many moves in and around the building at Fifth and Chestnut. First stop might be the office to get a permit; to explain an absence; to take a broadcast announcement; or—like Peach Ensley, pictured above—to sign out for a dental appointment. When homeroom devotions are over, it's off to classes or study hall. Auditorium study halls, with four hundred students, are hard to get used to. But after a while it is just routine to study without a desk and with unusual noises. Strains of "Mexican Hat Dance" carrying from the music room, heels clicking in the corridor, the flipping of chair seats and dropping of pencils all came in endless succession.

Finally, there's the mad dash of lunch customers, jostling and pushing to be first, especially for those special turkey dinners just before Thanksgiving and Christmas. Who ever saw so much food for thirty cents? And those rolls are always a favorite. After lunch another four minutes of crowding and shoving bring the student—perhaps to gym class for tumbling, basketball, or calisthenics. The "seven minute warning bell," of which the whole building is vaguely aware, gives the gym student scarcely enough time for a shower and change out of that detested blue suit before the next class—a really breathless finale to an active half hour.

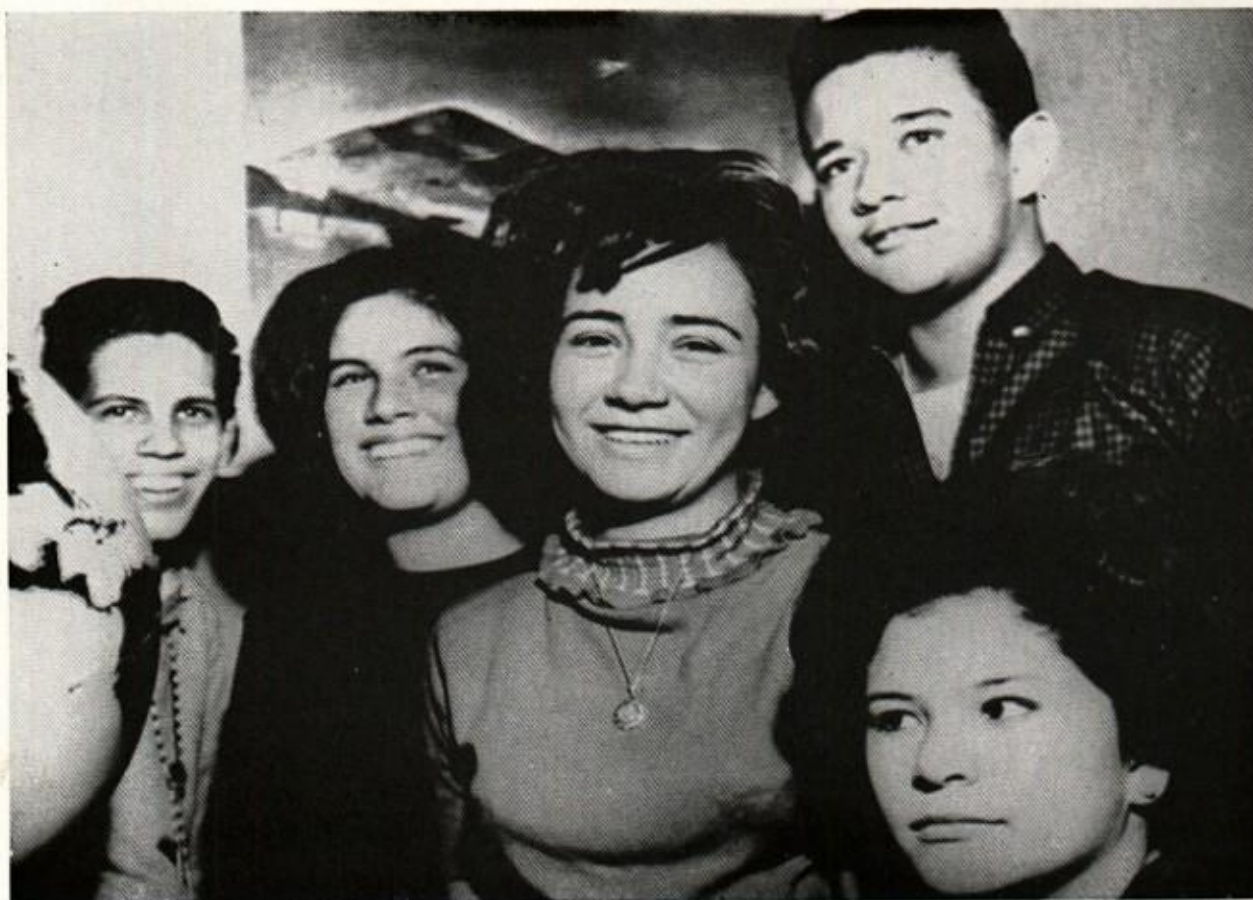

South American exchange students and public

One new experience for us this year was the enrollment of foreign exchange students. Five came to our school: Jose Lutrell, Annabelle Martielli, Ramon Soto, all from Panama; Carmen Juardo from Ecuador; and Chocho Palacios from Peru. Our friends exchanged their way of life to become Americans in our community for three months.

They found our school to be very different from theirs—girls and boys going to the same classes, eating lunch in the cafeteria, moving from room to room for classes, and even listening to English-speaking teachers! Of course they found our cold climate and ice and snow very new too, but they tried to enjoy them.

Having foreign exchange students at Indiana High aroused much interest about their schools and their way of life. Jose was a graduate of Lasalle, a school for boys in South America, where he was a basketball star. Carmen was graduated from the American School in Quayaquil, Ecuador, in January where she studied English for three years. Annabelle attended a girls' high school in Panama City and hopes to return to the U.S. to attend the University of Michigan. Ramon also went to Lasalle where he participated in football. And Chocho, our only junior, went to a private girls' school in Lima.

meetings link school and community together.

None of us will forget commuting to and from school—some on foot, some in cars, and many in buses from White and Armstrong Townships. Riding three in a seat, half-way in the aisle, was a terror all bus riders tried to avoid. And when arms were loaded with books, it was a nightmare. But the talk and laughter were fun.

American Education Week was punctuated by an evening meeting to inform our parents about needed changes in this building. Mr. Getts discussed the demands of science education, for example, which have occurred since 1922, making equipment obsolete. Afterward, a snack in the cafeteria allowed parents and teachers to get acquainted.

During a physics demonstration Mr. Shaffer explains the principles of a simple machine to Dennis Santini and Nancy Sahli. Chocho Palacios, our junior exchange student, carefully examines the library's magazine rack.

School Life sings!

Indiana's students sing to the tune of an exciting school life, including academics, current events, and a variety of musical activities. Mr. Thomas has trained his singers to produce some different programs. The whir of a bicycle tire tells us that we are near room 207, where physics demonstrations are conducted to make a difficult subject more comprehensible. A great interest in world affairs and weekly periodicals make the library hum; the magazine rack is a popular reference center for up-to-date news.

Mr. Thomas directs Senior High Mixed Chorus Tuesdays and Thursdays in Activity Period. During February his Melody Maids and quartets chartered a bus and traveled to the Penn Theater in Pittsburgh to hear "The Sound of Music."

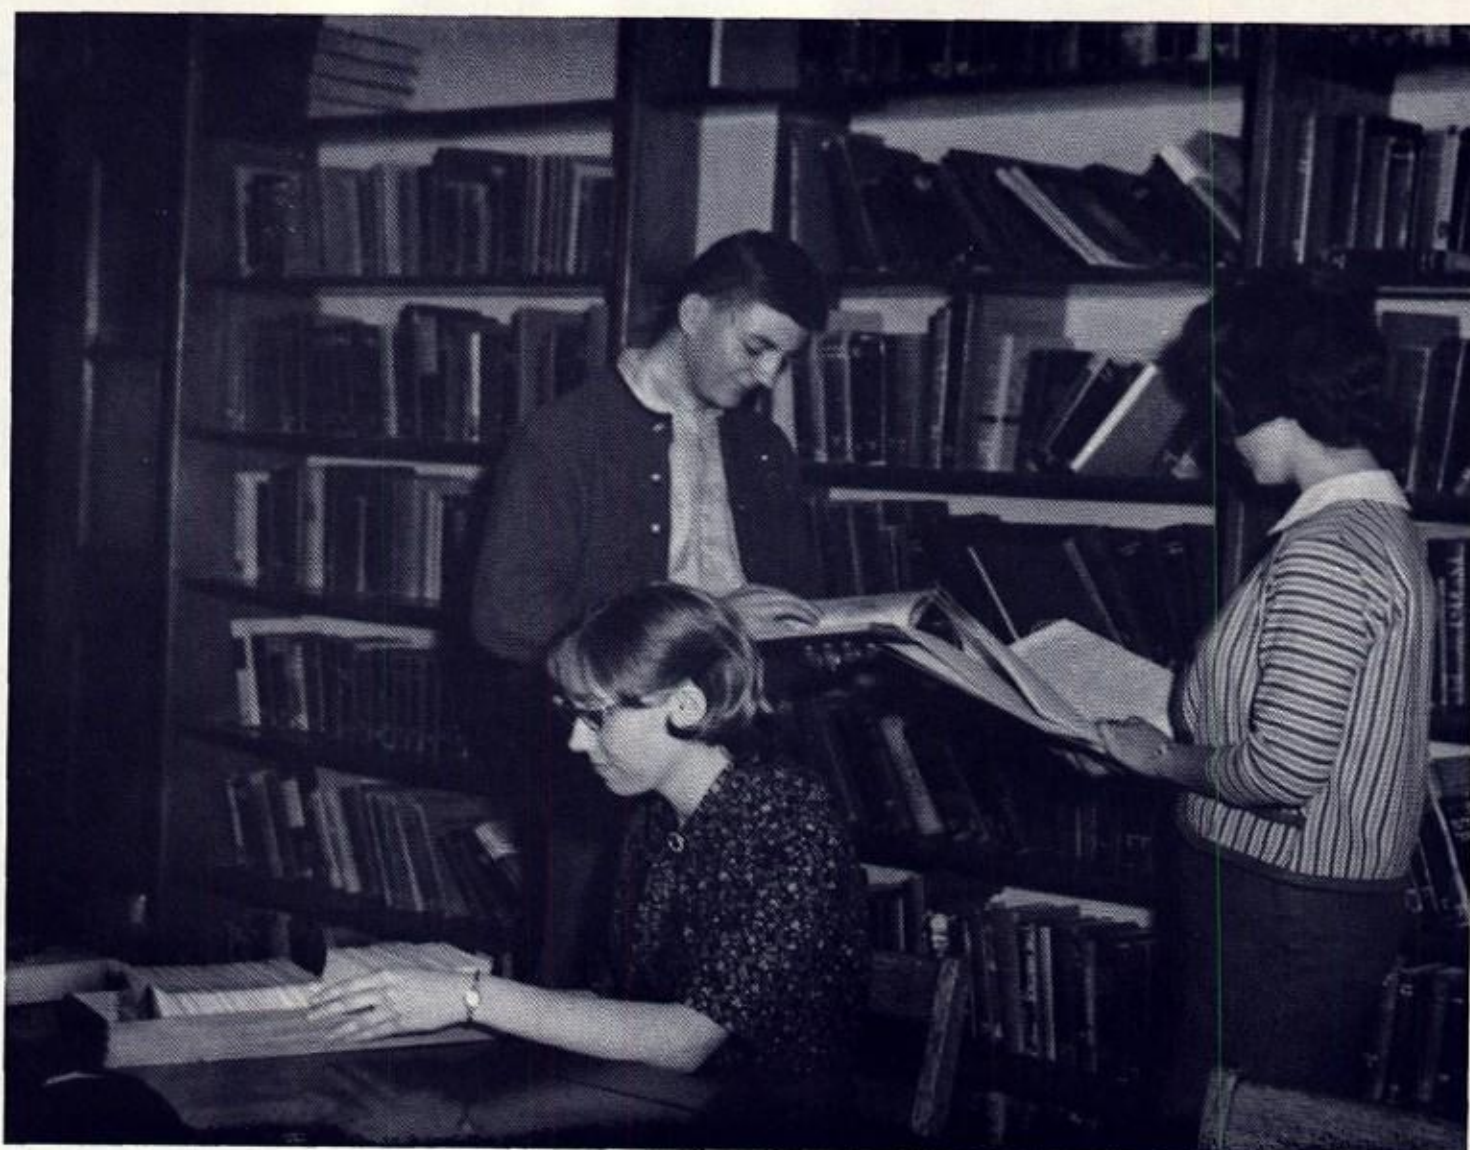

Frank Zagurskie and Ralph Twigg patiently wait for Mr. Joseph to sign their hunting permits. The excuses were issued for the first day of deer season, Monday, December 3.

Permits are required for many different types of hunting. 240 boys received official excuses from the office to go hunting the first day of deer season. Several went illegally and paid the consequences—taking zeros in their subjects and making up the time they missed. But a few thought the deer they got were worth the punishment. During February and March all seniors went hunting in the library. Encyclopedias, books, and periodicals offered valuable information for writing English Literature term papers.

Hunting — for deer and for knowledge —

Pete McNaughton, Susan Lydic, and Dianne Kramer hunt through reference books and the card catalogue, seeking useful information for their English term papers on "Aldous Huxley and His Style," "Cosmetics of the Elizabethan and Stuart Eras," and "A Parallel Between 'Romeo and Juliet' and 'West Side Story.'"

This crowd of junior high students enjoy eating lunch in the gym while being entertained by some basketball enthusiasts, competing in homeroom intramurals.

Several girls swing into action on a cold winter afternoon as they prepare for a snowball battle on the frozen athletic field behind the building.

Whether we're indoors or outside, we get along together. There is no nicer way to end a school week than to have a combined junior and senior high pep assembly for a hard fighting football team. Win or lose, the team is backed by a high spirited student body. A spirit of "togetherness" reigned at other times also. It's fun for friends to gather at lunch period either to talk or to watch a homeroom intramural in the gym. When the weather permitted and no faculty member happened to be present, it was fun to throw a few snowballs behind the school. Attending school when it was 28 degrees below zero and having a total accumulation of 48.8 inches of snow gave all a feeling of martyrdom and endurance.

ADMINISTRATION

PAUL R. GETTS . . . B.A., Pennsylvania State University; M.Ed., Pennsylvania State University; Superintendent. As Superintendent of all borough public schools, Mr. Getts must divide his time and attention among four schools and his own office.

Left: The superintendent's office staff, Miss Donna Hess, Clerk, Mrs. Elizabeth Peters, Secretary to the Board and Office Manager, and Mr. Robert Wieserman, Accountant, look over plans for the new school. Right: Miss Shirley McKinney, Secretary to the Guidance Counselors, Mrs. Isabell Nesbitt, Secretary to the Principal, and Mrs. Edith Hoover, Assistant Secretary, check over the daily attendance sheets.

RICHARD McGEE . . . A.B., Dickinson College; M.Ed., University of Pittsburgh; Assistant Principal. Mr. McGee's invaluable experience during the past years will help him next year when he assumes the position of principal of the new senior high school. Mr. McGee, who holds the respect of all his students, has assisted Mr. Joseph in the operation of the school.

The Guidance Department tackles programing

GLADYS MOORHEAD . . . B.S., Indiana State College; M.A., University of Pittsburgh; Penn State University; Advisor of Future Teachers of America, Co-Advisor of Ushers Club. Miss Moorhead, who advises grades 8, 10, and 12, helps the seniors prepare their college applications, interviews, and arrange for scholarships.

A. EUGENE KUNSELMAN . . . B.S., Clarion State Teachers College; M.Ed., University of Pittsburgh; Penn State University. Mr. Kunselman is the guidance counselor for grades 7, 9, 11, and helps the new seventh graders adjust to life in a new school.

Dr. Mitchell, assisted by Mrs. Smith, gives Harold Sekerak, a junior, his checkup, a requirement for all eleventh graders.

Health plays an important role in our daily lives. Throughout the school year Mrs. Smith, the school nurse, and Dr. Bee and Dr. Mitchell, medical inspectors, are busy keeping the students at I.J.H.S. healthy. Periodic checks of the students is just one of their many duties; other duties include filling out student insurance forms and looking after the athletes. Each student in eighth and eleventh grade is required to have a physical checkup.

The cafeteria manager and dietitian, Jean Kunkle, planned one hundred and eighty menus this year. She and her staff served meals to students and faculty; they also sold ice cream bars, candy, and life savers during both lunch periods. But the roast turkey, the salads, and those big round rolls are the items most students remember best.

The custodians have the job of keeping our school clean and ready for use for over 1700 students. Not only do they clean the rooms, heat the building, fix broken radiators, windows, and lights, but they also keep the sidewalks cleared of snow. The people who performed these services were: Robert O. Collins, Supervisor; Orville Jacoby; Ralph D. Williams; Dominic Aimino; Albert Geletka; John Kephart; Clair Fair; Jacob Montgomery; Paul Overdorf; Mrs. Mary Henry; and Rose McGreary, Matron.

Miss Stevenson advises Senior Class officers.

Senior students make contributions to art.

In this picture, Lois Brady is proudly displaying her plaque in the front hall. Many students of the elective art classes are asked to place their works in the showcase during the year. From 317-A, a tiny hole in the wall, have come projects by fifty art students—wall plaques like this one, table lamps, jewelry, and a sculpture from a block of salt, by Patty McCullough. These advanced art classes give a student interested in the subject, a chance to enjoy working with materials, and if he's interested in art as a career, help him to develop his skills.

Miss Handler's homeroom wasn't the only scene of students bundling up for the freak winter that hit Indiana. Since it is a school rule that the school will not be closed due to bad weather, the absentee list was sometimes put on two sheets of paper. As many as 534 students were kept from coming to school due to Mr. Jack Frost. Heaters were going in full schedule; and since they weren't used to this, chunks of ice kept them from acting at their peak. A wild array of clothing was piled on each student before leaving the school and at times, snowshoes would have been handy.

Deep snow, sub-zero cold bring out boots, scarfs.

Cafeteria provides food for hungry Seniors.

When the clock shows the time of 12:30, clear the halls because this is the time for lunch. Many ingenious ways are used to get to the front of the line and pictured here are some of the winners. Left, Kathy George, Carol Cramer, Linda Greshman, and Lois Brady are talking away while Tom Kimmel, George Crock, Ron Bergman, Tim Wilt, Roger Frederick, and Jack James are looking on. Among the favorite meals enjoyed by 350 students who eat there are sloppy joes and pizza burgers. The price for a dinner consisting of meat course, vegetables, bread, butter, milk, and a dessert is only 30c. No lunch tickets are used; just squeeze in and eat!

Mrs. Blair's 12-G English students are checking their folders containing all the work which they have completed during the year. Among the papers may be found essays on Pepys and Milton. Ballads and epic poems were tackled by the students with some amazing results. Shakespeare was studied thoroughly. Some students were asked to draw what they thought a Shakespearian theatre looked like. After each century in the English language was studied, a standardized test was given to keep the century fresh in the students' minds. Records were used in the study of Othello along with books of the play.

A hope chest is given to each Senior girl.

Each year the Senior class girls are given Hope Chests by the Penn Furniture Store and these girls are no exception. Sitting on the top step are Carol McGill, Jan Fee, and Harriet Berenbrok with Carol Morehead sitting below them. Each girl received a card in the mail congratulating her upon her graduation. The next step to take was to take the card to Penn Furniture to exchange for a miniature cedar hope chest. A key goes with the chest to keep all memories locked in tight with the lovely fragrance of cedar. Who knows what these seniors are hoping for? Maybe it's a bigger hope chest!

Life in Russia interests many Seniors.

Mrs. Hill is shown here helping Candis Jones, a P.O.D. student, with the study about Communism. Communism, a new subject this year, has proved to be an extremely interesting one. Several books, such as "The World of Communism," shown here, helped the students to learn more about Communism, how it spread, and about the leaders who forced it upon the people. Khrushchev, Mao Tse-Tung, Castro and other leaders whose pictures act as a background were studied also. Since communism proved interesting to all, it will be studied next year.

This is the moment the seniors in homeroom 108 have been dreading. Miss Church is dutifully handing out those fatal sheets of paper in the tan envelopes—report cards. Yellow for English, blue for social studies, green for sciences, pink for math, brown for foreign languages, white for everything else—a rainbow in every envelope—these slips carry grades for every subject, not only in achievement, but also in effort and interest, social adjustment, general attitude, and participation. The grades, 4, best, to 0, the worst, tell the story to which was glorified during the year.

Report cards may foretell the future.

Toward the end of the term a teacher becomes exhausted and Mr. Simpson is no exception. Here Christine Noel is acting as teacher in Mr. Simpson's math class. Chris got her information from the textbook, "Introduction to Finite Mathematics." Mr. Simpson originally taught college students in Pittsburgh and came to Indiana High in September, 1960. Mr. Simpson or "Slide Rule Simpson" to his basketball fans, also teaches Plane Geometry and Algebra II and III. Seniors enjoy his classes as he can make any subject more interesting with his famous jokes. Chris, who is a good student in math, needs this experience, she will need her sums.

B. P. W. entertains delighted Senior girls.

On April 16, the senior class girls were invited to a tea held at the Eagles Club by the Business and Professional Women's Club. As soon as the girls arrived the program began. The four door prizes—a vase, purses and belt, and flowers—were given away without any trouble. At each table there were rose-topped ballpoint pens beside the pastel, flowered name cards. Everyone enjoyed the music provided by the Girls' Chorus and the Senior Quartet. Among the songs sung were "Lift Thine Eyes" and "Angry." The refreshments, served buffet style, were gobbled with restraint.

Awards are presented to the outstanding

Several awards this year were given to those in bookkeeping and shorthand classes. Mr. Schell awarded Barb Shankel, Cherise Cramer, Shirley Ruffner, and Barb Wolfe certificates for both. Julia Widemire received one for typing and Dorothy Abel, Nancy Brown, Bobbie Cummings, Maggie Bishop, Brenda Burkett, and Donna Hanes were presented certificates for shorthand. The Future Business Leaders presented a check to the most outstanding business student, Barb Wolfe. Dave Hulin received a gold medal for mathematic achievement, presented to him by Mr. Joseph. A Nursing Scholarship was presented to Barb McCoy.

Bob Stright shakes hands with Mr. Joseph as he receives the Bausch and Lomb Science Award.

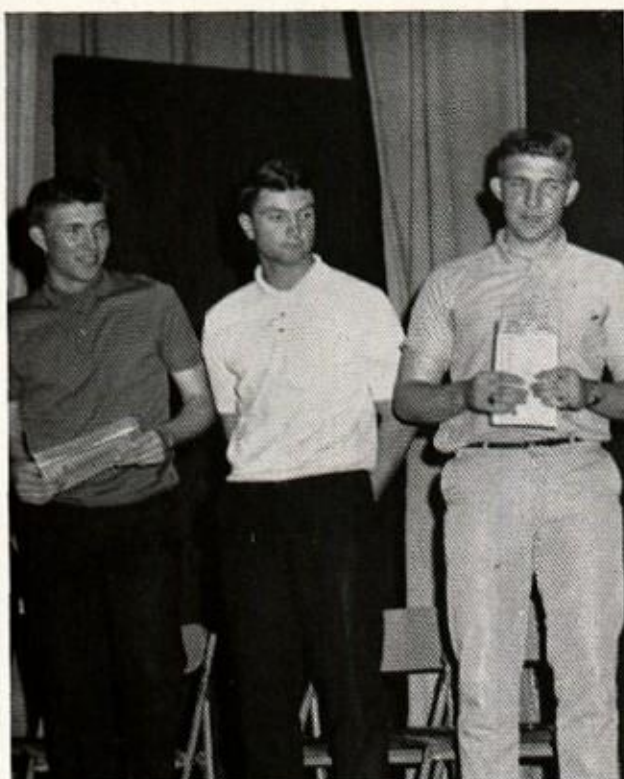

Jan Fee proved to be the outstanding senior of the Tri-Hi-Y and accepts her award from the sponsor, Mrs. DeGaetano.

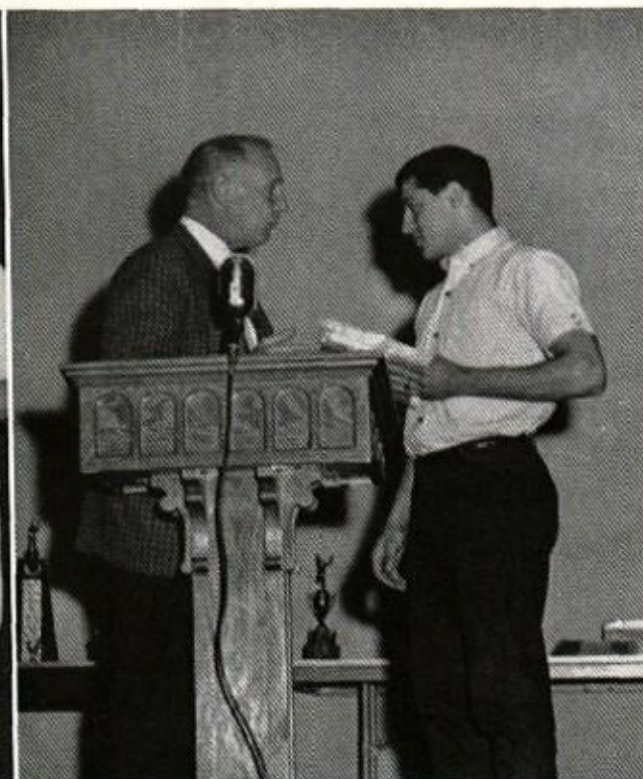

John Remensky grins happily as he receives the I.S.C. Rotary Scholarship Award from Mr. Lubold.

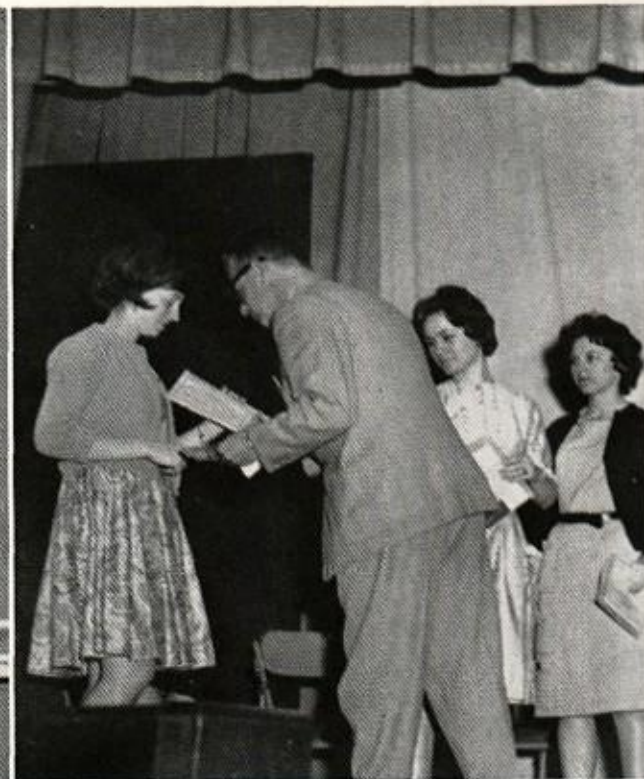

Bill Zapach, Sam Hoenstine, and Dan Zapach are triple letter winners in several sports.

An eleventh grader, Jim Repine, runner-up in the state wrestling finals, is being congratulated by Mr. Lengel.

Mr. Pollock is handing a majorette award to Lois Brady, while Mary Ann Buchanan and Cherise Cramer wait their turn.

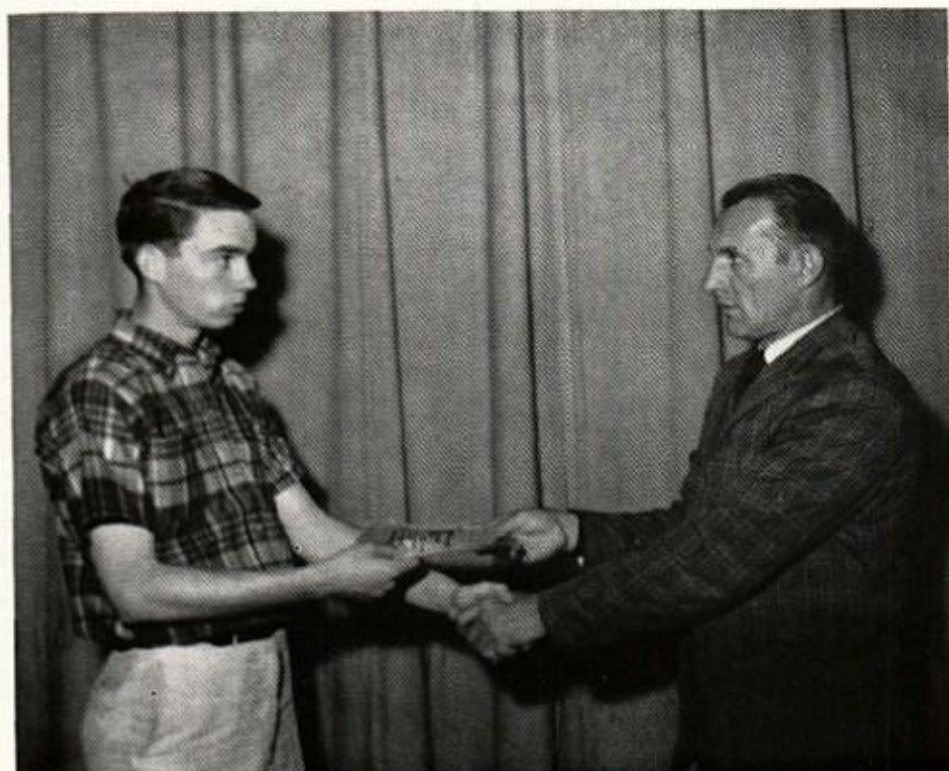

Students and athletes of the Senior Class.

Mr. Paul Bair presented Darla Fairman and Barbara Shankel with Kiwanis Club Scholarships. Out of the G.A.A. treasury came two scholarships for the outstanding members who wished to go on to college in the physical education field. They were Patty McCullough and Rincy Gregory. Other awards were given from several colleges.

Bob Stright received an NROTC scholarship to North Western, and Nancy Sahli is off to Vassar. Mary Beth O'Hara was the recipient of a scholarship to Mercyhurst, Dennis Santini a scholarship to Pitt, and Dianne Kramer a scholarship to Thiel. This assembly was a long one as there were many awards given.

The Farabaugh's make it a family affair as Mr. Farabaugh presents his son Dick with letters in football and track.

Sandy Kaylor proudly accepts the Superintendent's Award and the Home Economics Award from the New Century Club, presented to her by Mr. Joseph.

Here is Lynne Williams, made up to look as matronly as possible for her role of mother in "Seven Sisters." And she was an equally convincing flapper in the Senior Class Play.

singing and dancing talents in "The Boy Friend."

Bob Cronauer found a quiet spot to study his lines back stage. Since the cast was rushed for time, every extra minute was spent on the play books. To put the Senior Class Play on, the class had to pay two hundred and fifty-six dollars and to hunt for white blazers with red stripes. Since practice makes perfect, everyone did, like Bob.

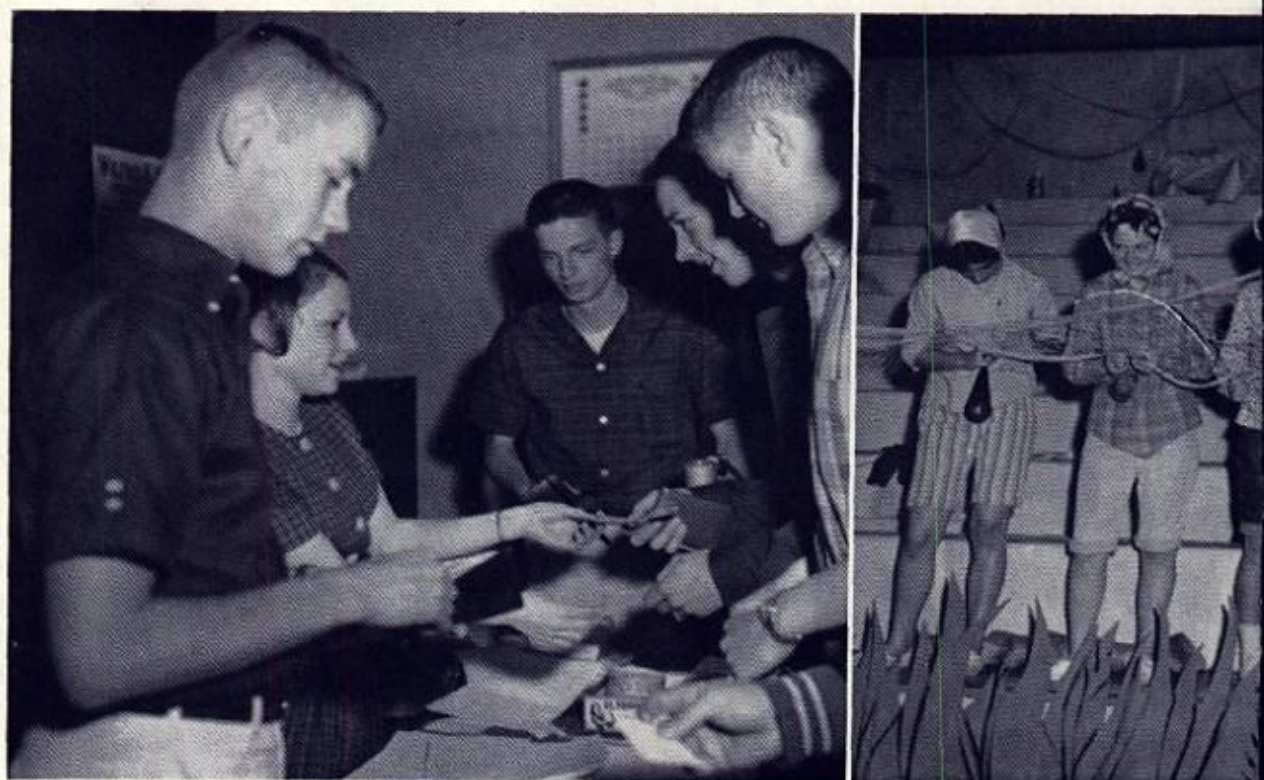

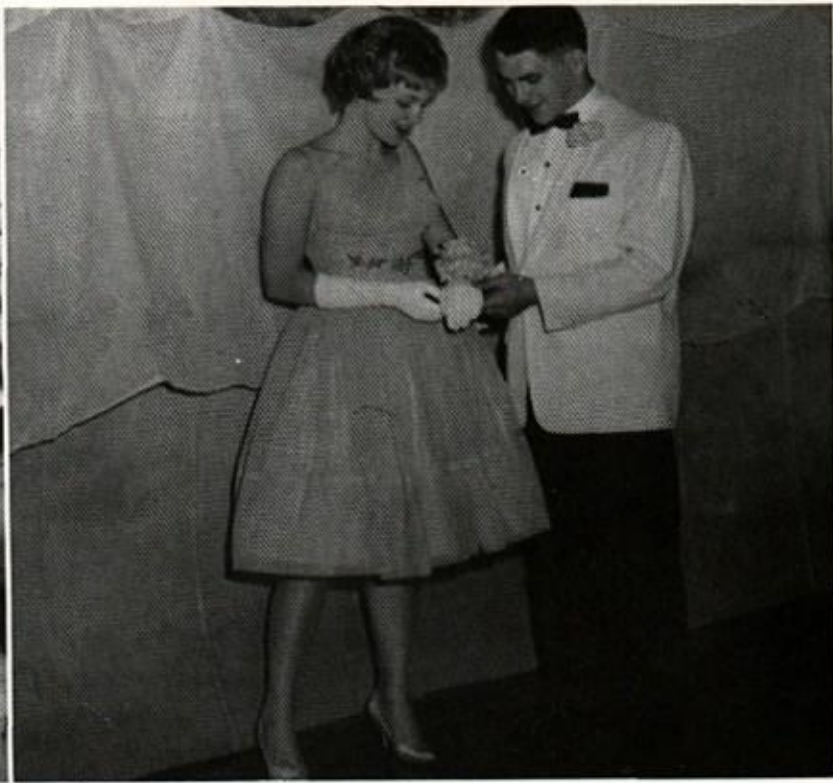

This year the theme of the Senior Class Dance was "Cupid's Caper." The gym was beautifully decorated with hearts and Cupid's silhouettes with a big heart near the dance floor where the queen, Sally Jo Fritz, had her picture taken. After she was presented with a charm bracelet in memory of her reign, she and her date, Jim Layton, led the next dance to the music of the Stardusters. The Dixielanders played during intermission.

Seniors whirl under Hawaiian skies.

A lot went on before the Prom and these pictures prove it. Bob Hamilton, Tim Hanley, Greg Hegner, and Jack Miller are giving their two-fifties to Miss McKinney for tickets. Next we see Connie Zugates, Eileen Conrad, Beth Hughes, and Ann Kennedy helping to build up the theme, "One Starry Night." Mary Ann Buchanan and Barb Demyan are helping John Remensky put up palm trees. At last the wonderful time has come and Tim Wilt is pinning a corsage on his date, Kathy Kumorek.

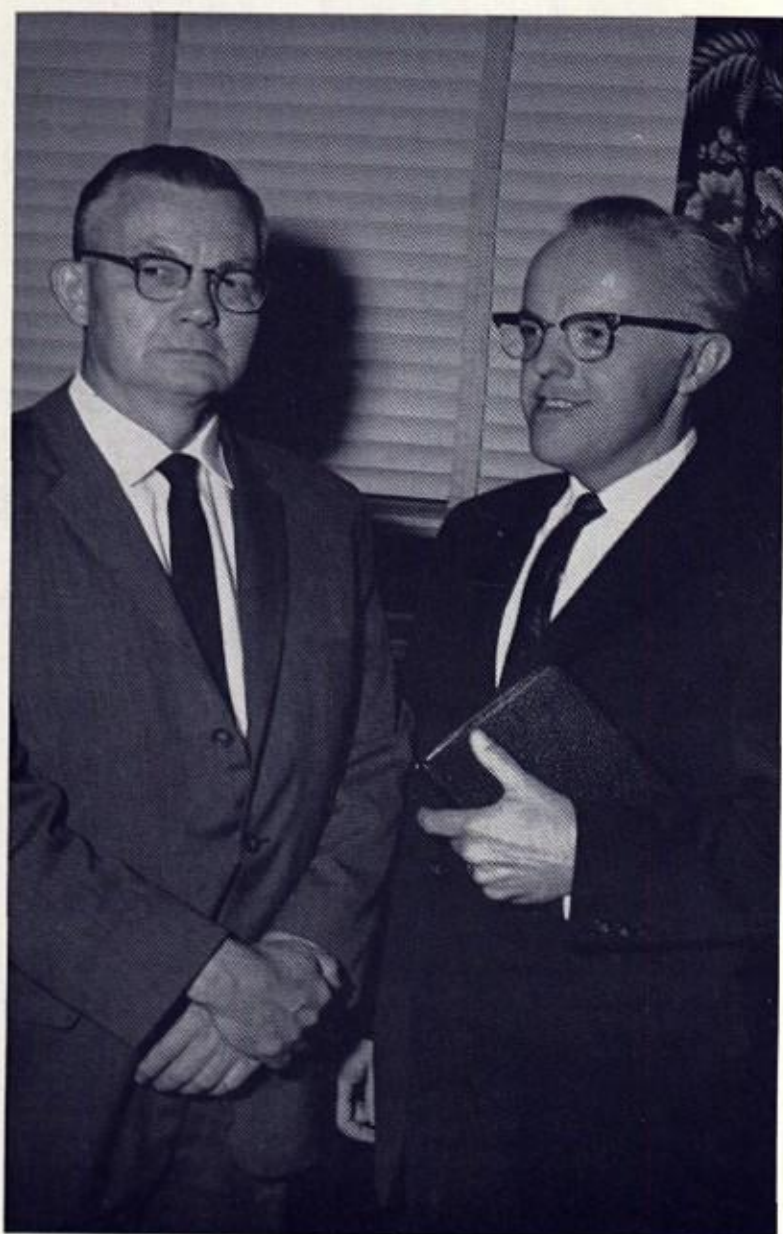

On Tuesday evening, June fourth, at eight o'clock the Class of 1963 marched down the aisles of the auditorium for the last time. The concert band, directed by Mr. George Pollock, played as the seniors proceeded through the auditorium to their seats. All heads bowed, George Robeson gave the invocation. Following the prayer, Catherine Stewart, accompanied by Jan Fee, sang a solo. After the address was given, Nancy Sahli played a clarinet solo. Diplomas were given to the graduates by Mr. Paul Getts, Superintendent of Schools.

The Class of 1963 listens as the speaker, the Honorable Harold C. Kessinger, gives the graduation address. After a short introduction by Mr. Getts, Judge Kessinger, a world traveler, spoke on "Tuning In On The Future." Diplomas are presented by Mr. Getts, assisted by George Roberson, class president, and Elaine Sakash, class secretary.

UNDERCLASSES

"Good morning! Here are your morning announcements." These are the words of Jim Ward, senior high vice president. One of Jim's duties as vice president was giving the daily announcements over the P.A. system. Among his other duties, Jim must be prepared to preside over Student Council meetings in case of the president's absence. Jim can be found giving enthusiastic support to any student project. Jim is quoted as saying, "I enjoyed being vice president and I hope that I have upheld the requirements and served the school efficiently."

Many experiences await our Juniors from

An important daily occurrence is the giving of the morning announcements. The public address system serves many purposes for the teachers and students of I.J.H.S. It gives the club meetings and intra-mural games for each day and publicizes dances and other recreational activities. Here homeroom 206 is listening to the morning broadcast being given by Jim Ward.

broadcasting the announcements to driving a car.

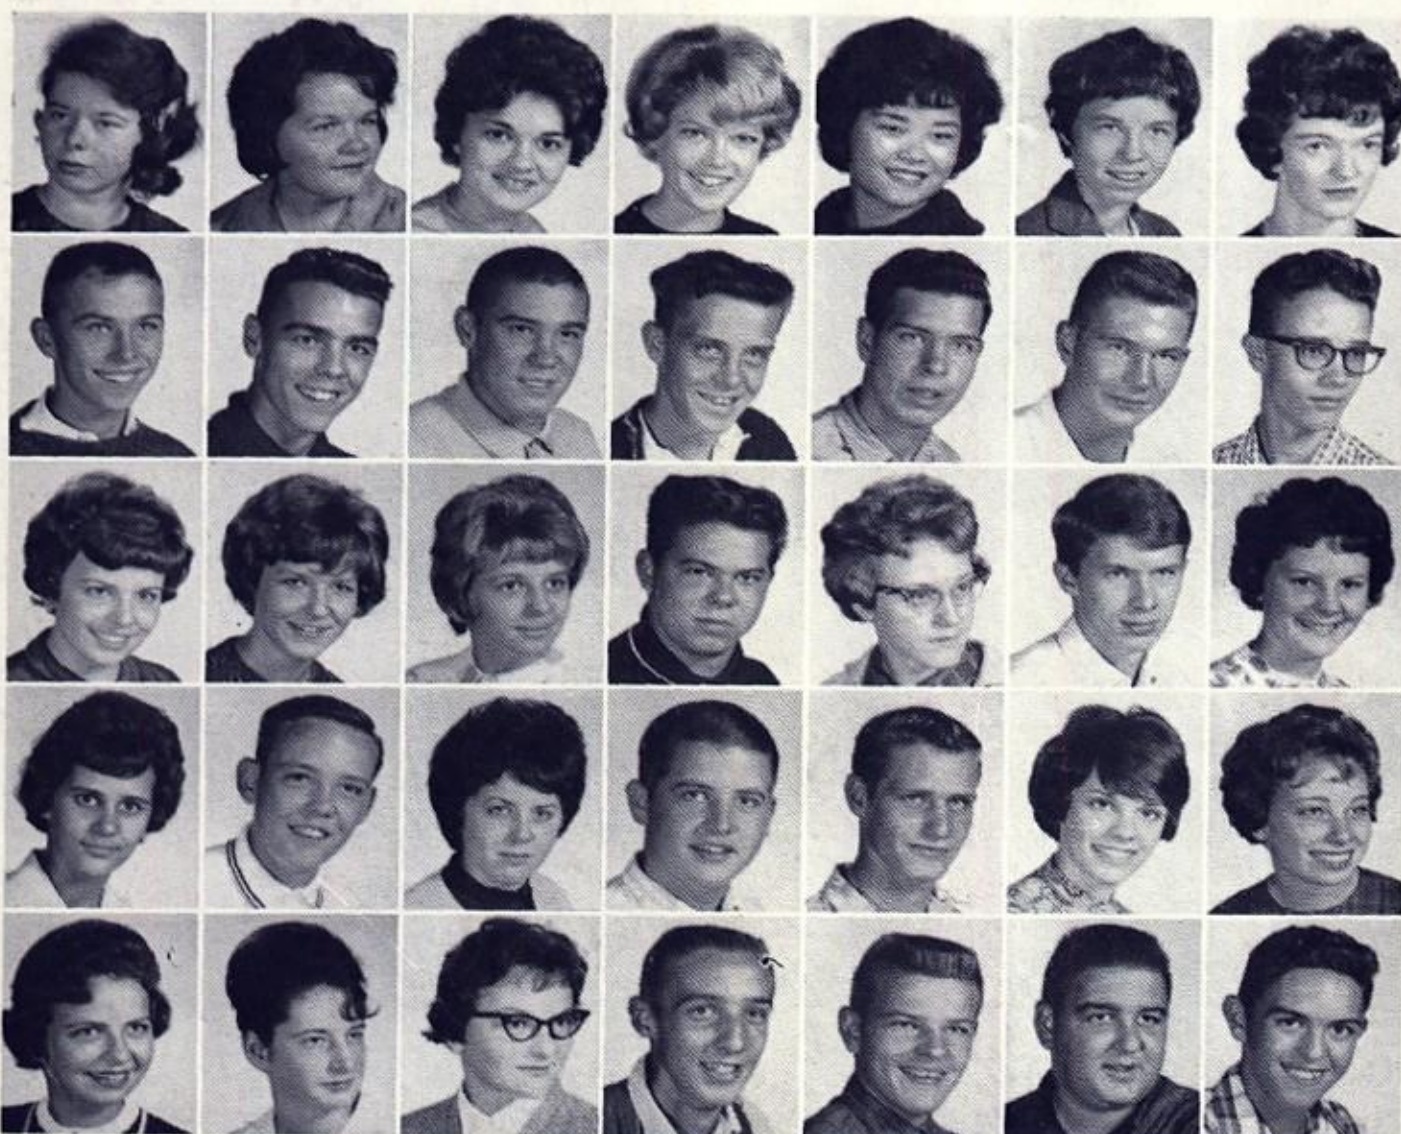

189 juniors took Driver's Education this year. Every Tuesday and Thursday Activity Periods were occupied with lectures and films. Twice a week in addition each student had a chance to drive one of the two cars, supervised by Mr. Wilt or Mr. Simms. Each student must meet the State requirements of thirty classroom hours and six hours behind the wheel before taking his State test. Mr. Simms, pictured at the right, is giving some safe-driver hints to John Levitz, Laura Myers, and Linda Johnston as they drive right off the page.

After the dismissal bell rings at three forty-one, there are always large crowds of students waiting at the front and side doors. These crowds are made up of many bus students. Our 14 buses which have been very reliable, even in bad weather, serve about 800 students. Each bus not only provides a means of transportation but it also makes a fraternity of the students who ride it. The riders may have to get up early to meet the bus at seven-thirty, but all of them will tell you the fun is well worth the effort.

Bus students add to early morning confusion.

Tom Drye and Jim Ward, working for the High Arrow, conducted a study of the twins attending I.J.H.S. They questioned many sets of twins like Mona and Dona Sheesley about the advantages and disadvantages of being twins. Some of the advantages stated were: twice as many clothes and presents and twice as much fun. One disadvantage mentioned by many twins was that they are always being asked if they are twins.

Junior members of the L'Indien staff were kept busy this year identifying pictures for the Underclass section. This identification can become frustrating for juniors identifying seventh graders. The auditorium study hall provided several eager students who proved helpful in the task of recognizing every student in the school. Pictured here are staff members Sue Weakland, Karen Steel, and John Campos and Rosemary Callahan and Marianne Wallen, helpers.

Each year the students eagerly await the election assembly. Each candidate, who is selected by a committee of teachers, chooses a campaign manager to represent him. For about a week before the assembly the campaign managers work hard making posters and preparing campaign speeches. Sam Hoenstine, pictured here, is giving his qualifications to the senior high. Sam must have been well qualified because later he received the good news that he was to be next year's student body president.

Celia Palacios, a junior from Lima, Peru, was one of our South American visitors this year. During her three months' stay, sponsored by the International Fellowship, Chocho lived at the home of Diane Sayers, also a junior. The Fellowship, a non-profit organization, was brought to the attention of the school by Mrs. Mary Recuperio. Mr. Ray Blose, our area chairman, helped develop the idea. Chocho is seen here surrounded by her North American family.

Our Peruvian observes American customs.

One of the best remembered subjects of tenth grade is Mr. Davis's World History. After tenth year students attend Mr. Davis's classes, they don't need to be asked if they can see the words "215 Workshop" above the door; they know the famous words well. This class may prove to be one of the most difficult for some students, but it is also one of the most interesting. Many of the things learned in Mr. Davis's classes also prove helpful in history classes of later years. After the complaining and worrying are over, tenth graders looking back are surprised to find that it was their favorite class. Here Sherry Shields, Bill Smith, and Denny Smith are learning about World War I with the help of familiar aids - books, maps, study guides, and Mr. Davis's clear writing on the blackboard.

These typists are students in the Business Education curriculum. Business courses are offered in two different programs: Secretarial and General Office. The Secretarial Program is organized for those who can become highly skilled in shorthand, typewriting, and office work. The General Office Program eliminates shorthand, dictation, and transcription and places more emphasis on general office procedures and the use of machines.

The word "dissecting" arouses many different feelings in tenth grade students. For those with strong stomachs it merely means another unit in biology. For those with not so strong stomachs it means no lunch the day of dissecting. Linda Rogers and Helen Hill, members of Mr. Holstein's biology class do not seem to mind handling the fish that they are preparing to dissect. Practical experience like this made understanding the unit easier.

Students are tested for evaluation among

On Thursday, March 14th, one hundred and twenty-two students spent three hours of the morning in the crowded cafeteria. They were participating in the National Mathematics Contest. After Miss Church, head of our Math Department, scored the tests, she sent the top three scores in to the contest headquarters. Dave Hulin, a senior, had the highest score and Vernon Steele and Jim Ward, both juniors, came in second and third respectively.

"Wonder what I got in World History?" The sophomores from home-room 207 are waiting for Mr. Shaffer to hand out report cards. Anxiety, eagerness, non-chalance of expression reveal the feelings of the students as they find their last nine weeks' grades. The grades this year range from 4 for excellent work to 0 for failure, replacing the former letter grading system.

Tenth graders presented a play to their fellow Sendracs members at the April meeting entitled "It's Cold in Them Thar Hills." The play was a comedy about a mountain family and their problems in getting a husband for their eldest of six daughters, Snoddy. Pa was played by Brad Edwards, shown here going husband hunting for Snoddy, played by Penny Moats. Carol Klammar, Nancy Klodosky, and Mike Borland played the other leading parts.

Tenth graders not only worked hard on their studies this year, but they also found time to participate in intramural sports activities. Throughout the year, depending on the season, students could be seen engaging in volleyball, basketball, and softball. The girls pictured here took advantage of one of the few nice spring days to play softball. These intramurals help promote good sportsmanship and also provide wholesome fun.

The new senior high school brings a whole new way of life not only to the senior high students entering the new building but to junior high students remaining here. The students left at I.J.H.S. will have their own student government to form. Who could fulfill the post as leader of the new organization better than Marilyn McGill? Here is Marilyn with some of her classmates as she demonstrates her ability to win friends and influence people.

Division of high school creates new leaders.

This year's Student Council has been lucky to have efficient leaders such as Junior High Vice President Kerry Simpson. Along with his duties in representing his classmates at weekly council meetings, Kerry found himself busy in other activities. During the fall season he played trumpet in the marching band; and in the spring he participated in the Junior High Track program. Here is Kerry carrying out his job as president of Junior Hi-Y.

Home economics is divided into two different classes—one class sewing and the other cooking. These ninth grade girls have gone through all the preparations for a dinner. First they had to plan their menu according to what they wanted and what would be easiest to prepare in forty minutes. Next, each girl was assigned a specific duty. When all the planning was finished, they started preparing the meal. This class, like many others, cooked the meal ahead of time in order to enjoy a calm dinner the next day.

All through the halls the Ninth Grade Art Class could be heard, pounding on their simplified jewelry. From copper, brass, and aluminum the students created clasps, bracelets, cuff links and scatter pins. This was just one of the many art projects that they worked on during this school term. In the two periods a week devoted to art, students could find out if they were artistically inclined or not. Many of the better students in these classes will continue to take art in senior high.

For the last time the basement of I. J. H. S.

While all other homeroom students are placed alphabetically, ninth grade girls in homeroom one are chosen at random by the guidance office. They live hectically. In addition to studying among the sewing machines, they must keep their books in the hall. To get belongings from their lockers, they take the risk of being trampled by senior high students stampeding for the lunch line. We're wondering about the lockers everyone will have in the new building next fall.

This year Mr. Grove's Ninth Grade Science Class took an indoor "field trip" to the high school boiler room. This trip was taken in order to increase the students' knowledge of the boiler system and to help them visualize the mechanism they were studying in the classroom. Here Mr. Aimino, the building custodian in charge of heating our building, is explaining to some of the 200 students who made the trip the techniques of heating each room to the proper temperature.

"Clean out your pockets! Put your chewing gum in your hand! Sit up straight! Don't give me any sickly grins!" Mr. John Knack, the school photographer, is giving these familiar instructions to a group of ninth graders who are waiting to have their pictures taken.

Everyone dresses neatly for Mr. Knack.

"Fine, hold it right there! Now smile." These appear to be Mr. Knack's most famous words. Here a ninth grader, who has followed Mr. Knack's instructions, is now ready to have his picture taken. He is symbolic of every underclassman who anxiously or fearfully went through the routine of having his picture taken.

Thirty-two students entered the Science Fair this year. Their projects were exhibited and judged with other Region Six entries at Indiana State College. The winners, Louis Mayar, David Scott, Joe Serene, Jerry Lewine, Susan Potter, Bill Pierce, and Trevor Hadley then went to the State contest at Hershey. Joe Serene became one of two from the State who will represent Pennsylvania at the National contest at Cleveland in December of 1963.

Students plan enthusiastically for Science Fair.

A great variety of topics have been discussed in the Eighth Grade General Science classes this year. One which proved to be very interesting and helpful was the unit on plants. The students learned the different types of plants and also the names and purposes of the plants' parts. Mr. Farabaugh, pictured at the left, is pointing out the parts of a flower to Linda Corbelli. By adding the information learned in eighth grade science classes to knowledge learned in former years, some of these students may become the Science Fair winners, like the students who are pictured above.

These seamstresses are members of Mrs. Gershman's Home Economics Class. They began by learning the parts of a sewing machine and practicing sewing on pieces of scrap material. After becoming skilled in this, they progressed to making pin cushions. Completing these, they made more difficult things such as skirts that required the use of patterns. In future years these girls may be modeling their creations in the Fashion Show.

The girls' physical education program included many sports this year—basketball, volleyball, softball, deck tennis, hockey, and tumbling. In the picture Mrs. Scerbo's Eighth Grade Gym Class displays skill in making pyramids. Among the other things required this year, headstands and cartwheels were supposedly learned by everyone. Stopping to listen, eavesdroppers could usually hear moans and groans from the gym.

Jump, kick, yell, and smile are the words being imprinted on the minds of these girls trying out for cheerleading. From the candidates eight would be chosen for the Varsity Squad, six for the J.V.'s, and six for the newly created Junior High Squad. The girls would be selected by a committee of faculty members and the graduating cheerleaders on the basis of cheering ability, grades, personality, and poise.

On Monday night, March 25th, six girls—dressed in formal gowns and boys' boots, with flour crowning their teased hair and blankets wrapped around them—marched into the Teenage Room for their initiation into the Major-ette group. The girls had to perform many acts showing their faithfulness and love for the other members by singing their praises to them. Other antics included dancing with each other, marching, and showing their costumes.

The Seventh Graders have been assisted by the Guidance Department for more than a year. Mr. Kunselman and Miss Moorhead went from school to school giving speeches about what and what not to expect when they arrive in high school. Still, when they did come, they were quite confused by all the changes. So, in stepped the Guidance Department and the new seventh graders were subjected to a small battery of tests to see what they didn't know. Afterwards, they found their new life quite nice.

Newcomers are given help in getting acquainted.

Both teachers and students experiment with new and different methods of instruction.

Although this year's Seventh Grade Class had a lot of fun, they accomplished a lot of hard work too. Mathematics is becoming more and more important in this day and age and this year it provided a real challenge to all seventh graders. In the picture one of Mr. Wood's Seventh Grade Math Classes is shown doing some of the helpful and necessary board work. No doubt some of these students will become the computer giants of this country.

This year Mrs. Vinton's Seventh Grade Social Studies Class decided to do something different by producing imitations of Socrates for their fellow class members. In the picture at the right, Bill Wyne, Chuck States, and Ken Ruffner demonstrate their ability as actors. Although it took time to learn the lines, all the students agreed that they enjoyed this new and interesting way of studying.

Mr. Mandigo's Seventh Grade Science Class is seen here learning the parts of the human body and their uses. By using a model with detachable parts, the students could actually see where the different parts are located, what they look like, and how they all go together to make up our complex organization. This information should prove very helpful to these seventh graders in their future high school biology classes and college anatomy courses.

Another new experience for our seventh graders was participation in a directed reading group. Here Mrs. Long, our reading teacher for seventh and eighth grades, is helping her seventh graders to grow in literary skills. They're enjoying selections from "Tales of Travel and Adventure" and "Reading with Progress." These reading classes teach the pupils skills which will be used—in homework, on jobs and for pleasure.

ACTIVITIES

Clubs help both

The Student Council, sponsored by Mrs. Recupero, directs the activities of the students. It charters new clubs, schedules dances, and plans assemblies. In the spring elections are held to choose officers. Dennis Santini headed the 1962-1963 Council. He was assisted by James Ward, senior high vice-president, and Kerry Simpson, junior high vice-president. The Student Council president appoints his own staff. Dennis appointed Margi Brody as secretary, Mary Beth O'Hara as treasurer, and John Remensky as sergeant-at-arms. Representatives are elected from all homerooms for an entire year. They attend meetings every Tuesday where activities are discussed and planned. Activities carried out by these representatives are: the Welfare Chest Drive, the Student Council Store where school supplies are sold, after game dances, and beginning this year, a force of office messengers.

I.J.H.S. would not be complete without the efficient and helpful Key Club. Under the direction of Mr. Ray Blose, these forty boys conduct numerous service projects yearly. Every morning found a Key Club member raising the flag outside the school. October brought a group of Key Clubbers to the Halloween Parade. These boys pinned on numbers and handed out favors to the children participating in the parade. In November the Key Club was entertained at the V.F.W. with a dinner. December brought Christmas and Key Clubbers could be found assisting with the decorating of the streets. In February the boys held their annual Key Club Night. The Club played the faculty and was victorious in a rousing game of basketball. During April twenty-five boys attended the Key Club Conference held in Harrisburg. The 1962-1963 Key Club year was ended with a carwash on June 1.

The Hi-Y is the brother club of the Tri-Hi-Y. It is divided into Senior High and Junior High divisions. The Seventh, Eighth, and Ninth grade boys are sponsored by Mr. Van Dyke, and the Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth grade boys are sponsored by Mr. Traugh. Larry Putt is president of the Senior division, and Kerry Simpson is president of the Junior division. The Hi-Y's participate in an athletic meet held annually at Slippery Rock College. During Christmas season food was collected and a turkey bought to be given to a needy family. A devotional assembly was planned in which two speakers gave reasons for developing religious faith in college. The speakers were two I.S.C. students. In May members attended a District Hi-Y Conference.

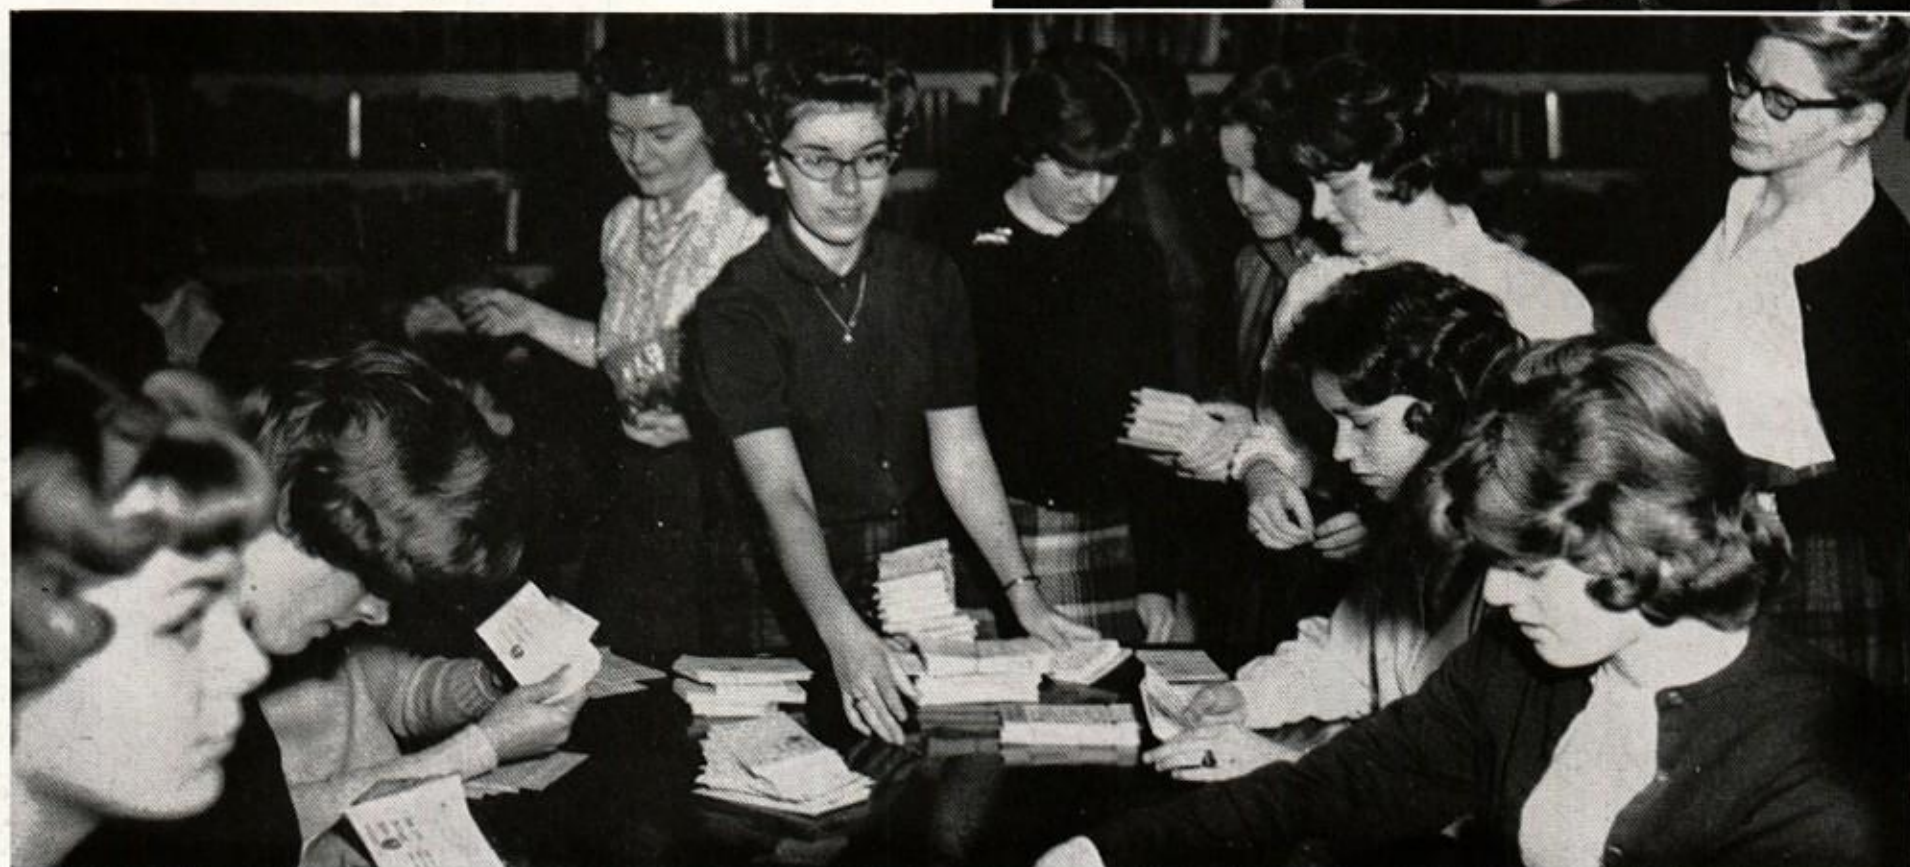

Helping others is the duty of our service

The Twelfth Grade Tri-Hi-Y is both a social and service club. Under the direction of Mrs. DeGaetano, they sponsored the Senior Class Dance on February 9. The gym was decorated with hearts and cupids expressing the theme, Cupid's Caper. They stuffed envelopes for the Heart Association, and made corsages for shut-ins at the County Home.

organizations.

Girls from the Seventh to Eleventh grade can

The Eleventh Grade Tri-Hi-Y, under the leadership of Miss Stevenson, started the year with a dinner at Bruno's. This year the girls took on a different service project by adopting Mr. Downey, resident of the County Home. Mr. Downey, who has no real relatives, was sent cards on all occasions and presents on Christmas and Easter. For one of their meetings a hair stylist showed them different hair styles. Later in the year they put on a play for the other Tri-Hi-Y's.

The thirty-six members of the Tenth Grade Tri-Hi-Y were busy as beavers this year. They initiated the new officers, invited Mrs. Crozier to speak at a meeting, and held the Easter Record Hop, all under the direction of Mrs. Salsgiver, their sponsor. Besides these, they sang Christmas carols at the hospital, visited the County Home, and became a Christmas Angel. They sent officers to the Central Western District Conference at Clearfield.

The 9-A Tri-Hi-Y, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Vinton, and the 9-B Tri-Hi-Y, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Roumm, filled the year with worthwhile projects. They sponsored a Christmas Angel project in which the girls contributed clothes, toys, food, and much of their time. Other service projects included making puppets for the children at the hospital and participating in both tag days.

also participate in the Y. W. C. A. program.

The members of the Eighth Grade Tri-Hi-Y with Rheta Downey, president, and Mrs. Creps, sponsor, conducted many interesting meetings this year. An informative program about the Grove City Conference, various church leaders, Christmas customs, and hobbies of members were some of the topics discussed during the year. The club was hostess to Mr. Telford Eppley, Executive Secretary of the local Y.M.C.A. district. On May 8 new officers were elected.

The Seventh Grade Tri-Hi-Y, under the direction of Mrs. Rairigh, began their Tri-Hi-Y years with an impressive candlelight installation ceremony. During the year the girls learned the purposes of their club—To create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character. The club's officers are shown in the picture.

The Red Cross, under the direction of Miss Thelma Bell, participated in many civic functions this year. They began by collecting books, playing cards, and puzzles for the patients in the Veterans' Hospital in Altoona. During the Christmas season the Red Cross decorated the County Home with wreaths and cards. Later in December they urged people to donate blood while the Blood Mobile was stationed in Indiana.

The Fire Squad, Red Cross, Ushers, and Library

The Ushers Club, under the direction of Miss Gladys Moorhead, ushers during school activities. The girls of this club see that those attending plays, concerts, College Night, and graduation ceremonies find their seats quickly and easily. This club is one of the service clubs which aid the school. At the Awards Assembly, senior members are given letters for their service.

The Fire Squad is one of the most valuable service clubs in the school. It is the duty of the Fire Squad to see that students are safely evacuated from the school in case of fire. They direct the students to safety and see that all doors and windows are closed. The Fire Squad, sponsored by Mr. John Selkirk, also helps keep order during air raid drills. They must know how to operate all fire equipment in the school.

Aides efficiently serve our school.

The forty Library Aides of our school are always in a hurry. With books being checked out, shelves to keep in order, thousands of permits to return to teachers, filing of circulation to be done daily, and work in the magazine room, there are many things to keep the Aides busy. Besides these duties, they help their sponsor, Mrs. Derwart, find materials for those students who make reports. The Library Aides are responsible for the miscellaneous jobs which make the library run smoothly.

The Future Business Leaders was sponsored this year by Mr. Schell. He is shown here with the club's officers. The club raised money to award an outstanding business student. Barbara Shankel was the recipient of the award. She was presented it at the Awards Assembly. Proficiency certificates were also awarded to those students who had achieved an A or B in typing or bookkeeping. Remember Rick Hughes who was the only boy to receive this award?

The Spanish Club, sponsored by Mr. Tabone, conducted meetings in which Spanish customs were discussed. The club, with Dan Zapach as president, planned a Christmas party. It was held December 26th at the Recreation Room. The breaking of the pinata, filled with candy and favors, climaxed the evening. In April the club held a cupcake sale. Proceeds from this sale were donated to buy Spanish conversation books for the classes.

A wide range of clubs at I. J. H. S. makes

The Russian Club began its first year sponsored by Mr. Yackuboskey. The members learned the fundamentals of the Russian language. Mr. Yackuboskey is shown here explaining a detail to his club's members.

The Chess Club is under the sponsorship of Mr. Riley. The boys in this club start out learning the fundamentals of chess. Many of them soon become experts. Chess, which requires great mental concentration, is a very popular game with these boys shown above. They are seen deep in thought playing a game of check and check mate.

The Coin Club, sponsored by Mr. Banks, is one of the newer clubs at I.J.H.S. The boys in this club are interested in learning about old and rare coins. They learn the value of the coins they have collected. Mr. Banks is shown here with a group of his club's members. He is displaying some coins which the boys have brought in for discussion.

it hard to decide which one to join.

Sendracs presented the romantic comedy, "Seven Sisters," on March 22 and 23. The story concerned Mitzi Gyurkovics, who, having been expelled from a convent boarding school, returned home a young lady. Her mother was completely dismayed to find Mitzi so grown up. Mrs. Gyurkovics promptly demoted Mitzi to fifteen until her three sisters were married. Mitzi and her young man managed to marry off the three girls and in the end were also married. The seven sisters and their mother are shown at the right. Sitting, l. to r., are Bonnie Edwards, Barbara Demyan, Lynne Williams, Kathy Kumorek, and Patty McCullough. Standing, l. to r., are Linda Gershman, Mary Ann Buchanan, and Judy Nix. Rehearsals, shown at the bottom, ran every school night. At the top left the prompter is shown ready to help anyone who had a bad case of stagefright. At the bottom makeup is being applied as the final touch to weeks of hard work.

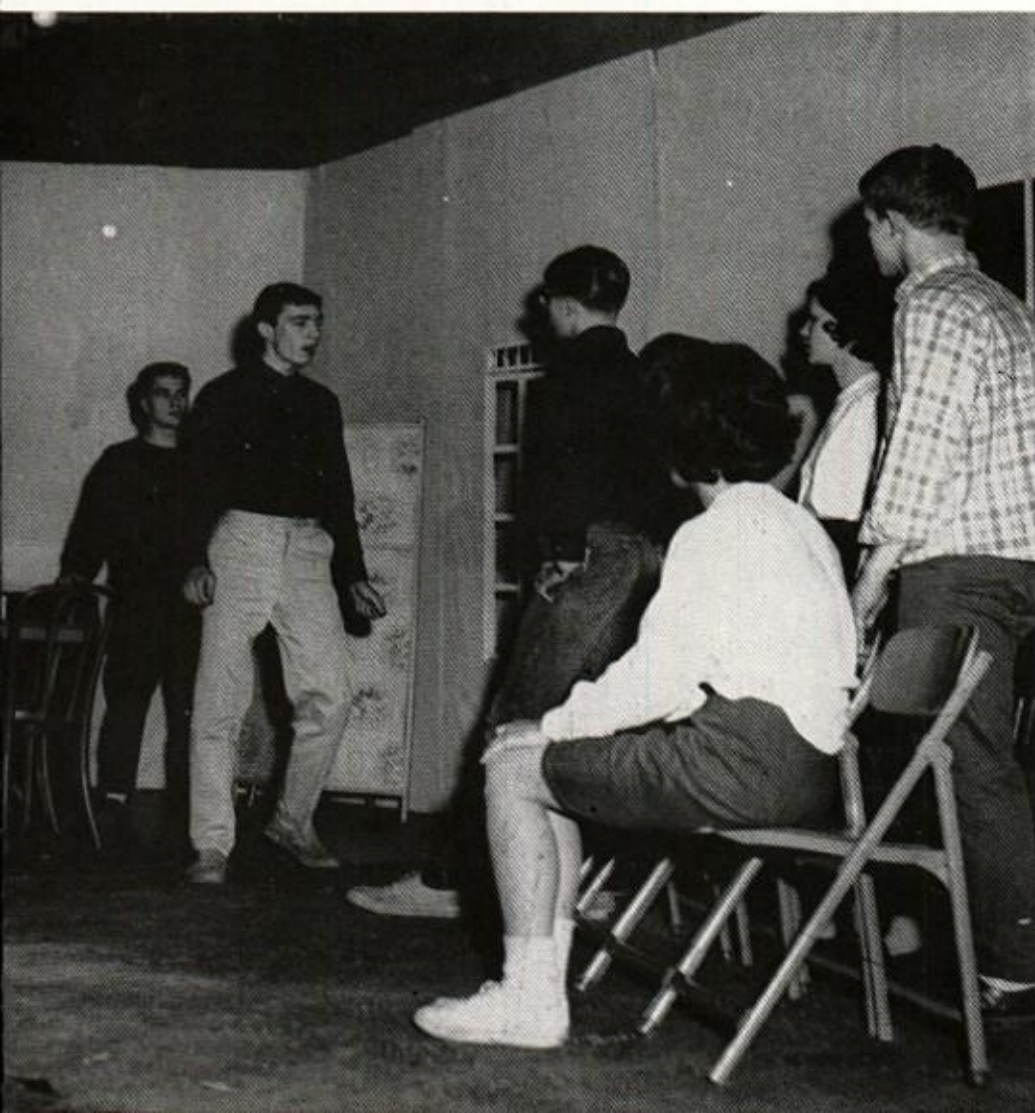

Sendracs

Sendracs, sponsored by Mr. Nix, conducted monthly meetings for the members. Each Senior High grade was assigned a meeting. The Twelfth Grade presented a parody of Shakespeare's "Hamlet." The Eleventh Grade put on two abstract plays, "The Sandbox" and "The Leader." The Tenth Grade enacted a play called "Them Thar Hills." These meetings were to entertain and teach dramatics to the members.

The Senior Broadcasting Club, sponsored by Mrs. Vicki Wadas, presented broadcasts over WDAD once every school month. The programs were written by the members and concerned the important events and famous people of the month. These broadcasts were aired Sunday evening at 8:15 and lasted fifteen minutes. To be a member of the Senior Broadcasting Club, a candidate has to tryout. A member must have a pleasing voice and good enunciation. To close the year, the Club had a picnic at Seph Mack.

These clubs answer willingly any call

Meet Mr. Nix's Stage Crew: Mike Kinter and Ed Hill, flanking Mr. Nix, and Jon Robeson and Charlie Kuzneskie, holding the tools of their trade; in front of them, Dick Farabaugh and Tim Wilt; seated on the prop steps, Denny Santini, George Robeson, and Tony Sgro. These boys may be found moving scenery, pulling the curtain, or arranging the lights for any play, concert, or assembly. They are permitted to have their own study hall backstage.

Members of the Camera Club, sponsored by Mr. Grove, are proficient in both the taking and developing of pictures. It is their duty to take these pictures for the High Arrow and L'Indien journalism staffs. This work is voluntary and requires long and odd hours. They are called on to take pictures of athletic contests all through the year, dances, plays, and club activities. The Camera Club does this work efficiently even under inadequate conditions.

The Projection Club, headed by Mr. J. Shaffer, is in charge of all projection equipment in the school. It is their job to see that screens, projectors, and accessories are in working condition for assemblies, Driver's Education classes, science and social studies classes. The Projection Room, a cubby hole on third floor is considered home-room for club members.

During American Education Week the Future Teachers of America presented each teacher in the high school and elementary schools with an apple in appreciation for all the help they have given the students. A rummage sale was held in order to raise money for the Shamrock Shuffle. "Shamrock Lane" was used as the theme, and the gym was decorated in green. Two conventions were attended by the F.T.A. this year. Members attended the Central Western District Convention where Susan Miller was president. Mary Ann Buchanan, Jean Grube, and Susan attended the State Convention.

Future opportunities

The Senior Science Club, made up of students interested in exploring the mysteries of science, was sponsored by Mr. Harold Grove. Each member of the club was involved in the making of a project. These projects were then exhibited at fairs held at Indiana State College, Buhl Planetarium, and I.J.H.S. Recognition was given to them at Pittsburgh. Jim Snyder is shown explaining an experiment to the members.

The Future Homemakers of America began its first year, headed by president Judy Collins and sponsored by Miss Clements. An induction service was held for all of the members on November 7 in the auditorium. During the year the girls worked on their Junior Homemakers Awards. On April 1, members attended a county F.H.A. meeting at Laura Lamar. In June the club sent girls to Penn State for a convention.

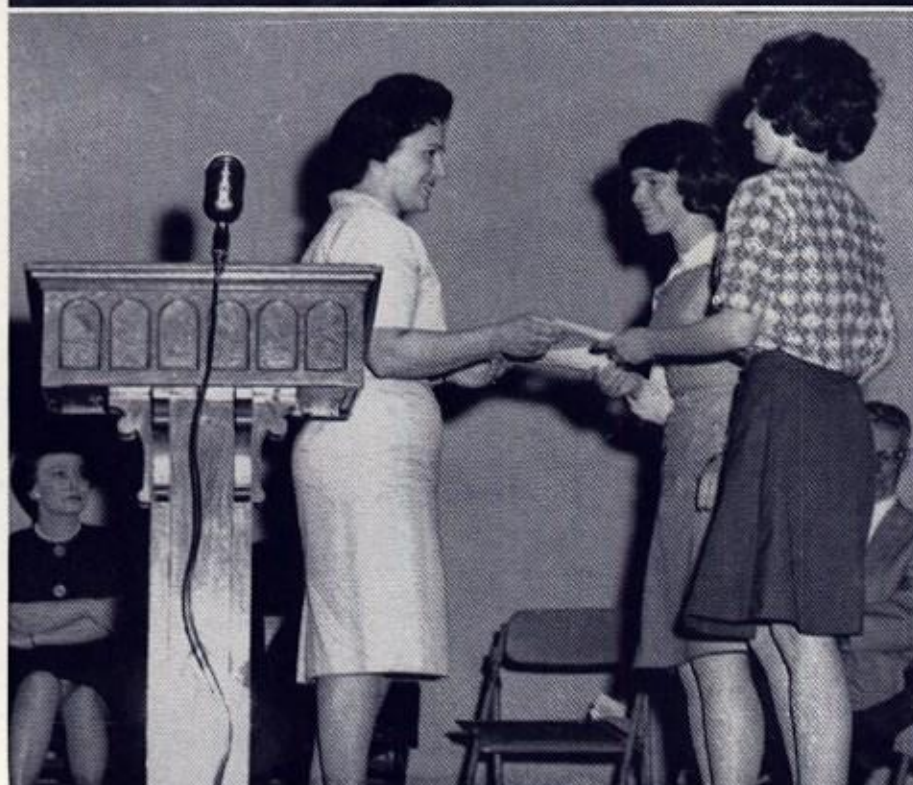

are explored in various clubs.

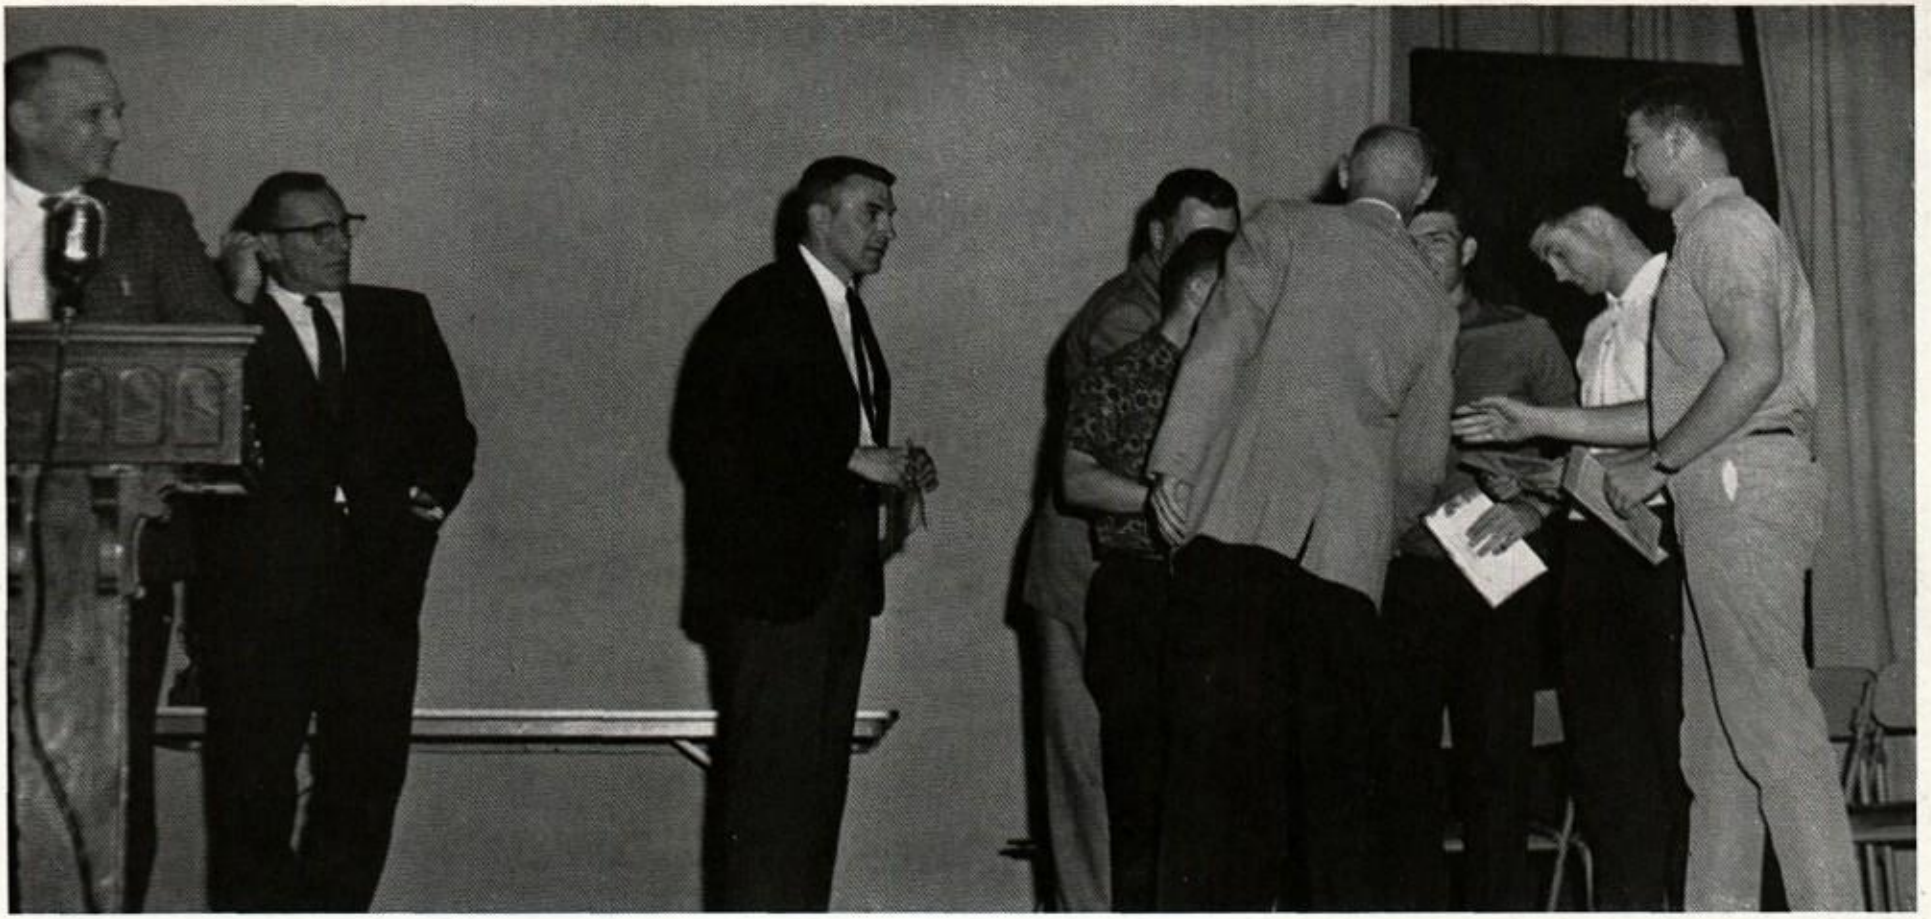

G. A. A. and Varsity "I"

The G.A.A., including all Senior High girls, is an athletic organization. Before a girl can become a member, she is initiated. This year the girls, wearing rolled down socks, limboed under broomsticks and pushed oranges across the gym floor with their noses. Later in the year a Play Day was held for the members at the Lions Health Camp. On May 23 the Girls Athletic Association presented its first scholarship awards to Patty McCullough and Rincy Gregory.

reach good sportsmanship to students.

This year's Varsity I Night was held on December 27. The members to be initiated wore skirts, snow boots, crazy hats, and lipstick. Of course the Varsity was victorious over the faculty in the traditional basketball game. The students were delighted. In the spring the Varsity I presented Mary Beth O'Hara and Beverly Scott with red blazers. These two girls had been Varsity Cheerleaders for three years. At the Awards Assembly, shown above, Varsity letters were awarded. A few of the boys were awarded three letters. The Varsity I held its annual carwash during Easter vacation. This project ended the club's activities for another year, but the boys kept on playing baseball and winning track meets.

Fair play is assured by competent Cheerleaders

J. V. Cheerleaders—Peggy Beattie, Donna Dickie, Marie Manos, Sherry Shields, Marilyn Sakash, Jan Beatty—are busy during every minute of a J.V. game. Yelling, cheering, clapping—their vigor makes every player feel that the whole school is behind them.

and Referees.

The Varsity Cheerleaders are a group of eight peppy Senior High girls. Abounding with energy and determination they are constantly there to cheer for their team. These girls are kept on their toes by yearly tryouts and are judged by athletic ability, personality, grades, and appearance. During the 1962-1963 Cheer-ing Contest, they placed fourth.

Cheering, traveling, and working for our teams constituted the duties of the Pep Club this year. At the last football game the members honored the mothers of the senior players by presenting each one a corsage of white chrysanthemums. They also had money-making projects such as saving bottle caps and having cupcake sales to pay for the buses they took to the games. During basketball season Pep Club followed the team in the Tri-County games and traveled with the cheerleaders to the Cheering Contest at the War Memorial.

School spirit soars high as the Pep Club

Indiana's high-stepping Majorettes enlivened the Band's performances. Their peppy marching and tricky routines entertained spectators every half time during football season. These ten girls—Cherise Cramer, Peggy Harper, Linda Gershman, Lois Brady, Twila Cramer, Mary Ann Buchanan, Jan Bair, Cindy Peters, Linda Altman, Bonnie Johnson—are sponsored by Mrs. Gershman. Yearly tryouts are conducted. In the lower left hand picture, Linda Gershman is seen teaching a new girl to twirl. On the right are next year's Majorettes.

Indiana's Senior Marching Band consists of sixty members. Under the direction of Mr. Pollock, these members with the aid of ten major-ettes and a drum major, Rodney Allshouse, entertained at all the half time shows during football season. This year they devised a special maneuver in which the band members formed a floating diamond on field. They participated in the Hallowe'en Parade, in the Homecoming Parade, and in the Armistice Day Parade—all of which are sponsored by the community. Some were invited to play in the district band. Band members are awarded letters in their senior year for service to the school.

The "Uncalled Four" won the hearts of their audiences by warm humor combined with their singing talents. Bob Hamilton, Rod Allshouse, Dave Hulin, and Joe Serene compose this boys' quartet, newly organized this year. "Goodbye, My Coney Island Baby" became one of their most entertaining songs. Maggie Bishop, Jan Fee, Nancy Jacoby, Mary Lou Bair, and Barb McCoy are all seniors, composing the Senior Quartet. But this quartet, consisting of five girls, is unique; it has two leads instead of one. Mr. Thomas's quartets were added to his regular choir, which then became Indiana's Traveling Choir. This group not only entertained various local organizations, but they also sang their way to Kittanning and Ford City for two high school assembly programs. The choir, pictured below, consists of: Bob Hamilton, Greg Hegner, Lee Edwards, Steve Skoriya, Angie Serianni, Charlotte Koch, Vinnie Daldoss, Tom Williams, Ken Palmer, Dave Coy, Joe Serene, Rod Allshouse, Dave Hulin, Mr. Thomas, Maggie Bishop, Kathy Stewart, Sandy Kaylor, Bobbie Woodard, Jan Fee, Margie Rankin, Kay Brady, Dianne Kramer, Nancy Jacoby, Karen Campbell, Lola Bence, Mary Lou Bair, Barb McCoy, Dottie Yanish, Judy Kritzer, Karen Fritz, Donna Lowman, Beatrice Buggs, Jan Bair, Vicky Haydon, Donna Orr, Alice McKlinsey, Grace Medlock, and Debbie Bell.

Singing and entertaining travel hand in hand

Mr. Selkirk's High Arrow Staff is in charge of publishing the school's newspaper. The eight senior members planned twelve issues of the HIGH ARROW. Junior members were assigned to write special stories and do other miscellaneous jobs. Lee Edwards and Karen McVitty, both juniors, are shown typing. Toward the end of the year these juniors were assigned to work on one page exclusively. Along with the regular editions, two special ones were published. The Juniors had their own edition, "The Low Arrow," which was put out on April Fool's Day. The last edition was one done especially for the seniors. In this edition future plans and class superiors were named. The High Arrow Staff consisted of Barbara Demyan, editor; Karen Phillipi, Feature Editor; Karen Wolfe, Sports Editor; Carol McGill, Activities Editor; Elaine Sakash, Business Manager; and Carol Moorehead, Circulation Manager. The Staff sold football programs and senior name cards. The HIGH ARROW was very popular with the students as the Senior boys at the top can tell you.

The L'Indien Staff, under the direction of Mrs. Elinor Blair, is responsible for the planning of each year's yearbook. In the sophomore year students are selected for the forthcoming staff. This course is an elective and meets every day. During this period the yearbook is designed by the Staff. The 1963 Staff consisted of Sandy Kaylor, Mary Ann Buchanan, Brenda Brothers, Susan Miller, Sharon Irvin, Jim Snyder, Vernon Steele, and Nancy Blose. Senior Assistants were Betsy Beck, Harriet Berenbrok, Dick Farabaugh, and Mary Yurechko. The planning which goes into one yearbook requires a year of work. Pictures must be taken, printed, and identified. Copy must be lively and must tie in with the pictures. Patrons must be solicited and subscriptions filled. To start off the sales campaign, the L'Indien Staff put on an assembly, shown in the picture at right. At the end of the school year the book is sent to the publisher who prints it and returns it for distribution in August.

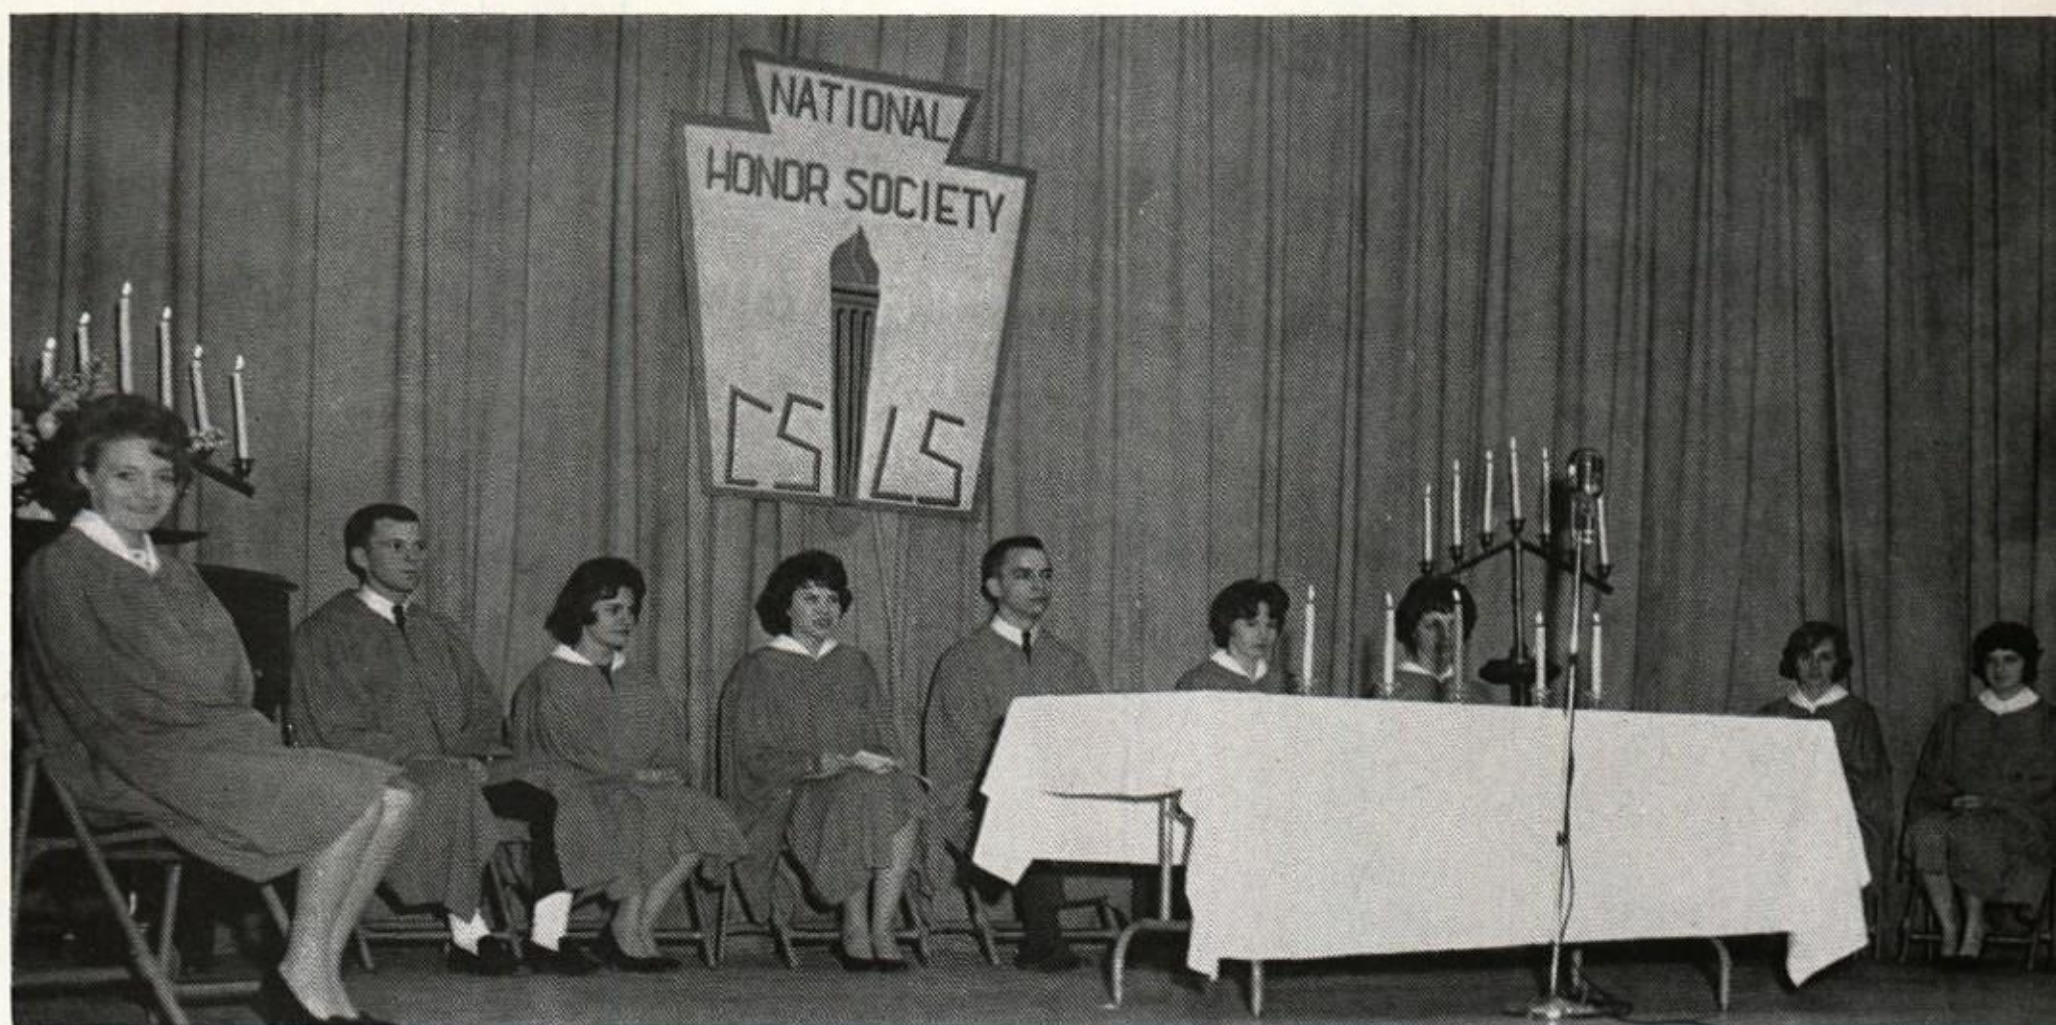

Character, scholarship,

Every year Miss Church teaches the graduating seniors to march to "Pomp and Circumstance." Here she teaches Carol Walker, a member of Senior National Honor Society. Miss Church is the club's sponsor.

The Junior National Honor Society, sponsored by Miss Rink, recognizes scholastic achievement in the Junior High grades. The members are chosen from the Eighth and Ninth grades. They were inducted into the club in a candlelight ceremony conducted by the officers.

Senior National Honor Society, under their advisor, Miss Church, and their president, Bob Stright, enjoyed many varied activities. Some of these were a picnic, the dinner given by the Kiwanis Club for the Senior members and, most important of all, the beautiful induction of the new members, both Juniors and Seniors. At the Awards Assembly Kiwanis presented the new members with gold National Honor Society pins.

When the middle of August rolled around, many of the boys disappeared from view; this was the start of football season. On August 17, 1962, Mr. Farabaugh and the other coaches handed out the equipment, and on the next day they began to practice. They started early in the morning and finished late in the afternoon. In a few days they would be going out to the Lion's Health Camp where they would stay for two weeks while they held their vigorous pre-season practice.

At camp, practice starts at 9:00 o'clock in the morning and lasts until 11:30 when the players have time off for lunch and some rest before they start practicing at 2:00 in the afternoon. When afternoon practice is finished, it is time for supper and more rest before a short evening practice. During these practices the team learns the difference between types of blocking and types of defense. Much of the time is spent in conditioning their necks, legs, and elbows to be able to take this rough game. On the weekend between the two weeks at camp the whole football squad traveled to Curwensville for a pre-season scrimmage; and with a great show of power and skill the Little Indians stomped the opposition into the ground. After another week of practice the squad traveled to Homer City for a scrimmage with Laura Lamar. Our boys were not up for this game and did not do so well as they had done in their other scrimmage; but this was a good thing, for it taught our boys not to underestimate the opposition.

Leechburg: On September 7 the Leechburg Blue Devils invaded Indiana with a spirited team, but the Devils went home saddened as the Indians overpowered them 21-14. DuBois: The team journeyed to DuBois and found an easy prey as they scored a 20-7 win, but lost Ray Buggy for the year due to an injury. Windber: The tribe went to Windber looking to avenge last year's defeat. The Ramblers held our scoring to a thrilling broken field run by Sam Hoenstine, and the game ended 20-6 in favor of the

The addition of Mr. Frank Shaffer to the coaching staff was a big help to the J.V. edition of the Indians. Mr. Wood remained as the head J.V. coach, and Mr. Lengel remained to help head coach Farabaugh with the varsity. Mr. Kurtz stayed on as the head junior high coach with some assistance from Mr. Selkirk this year. All of these men assisted Mr. Farabaugh with the varsity during the fall camp workouts. The junior high and J.V. teams had a hard time this year, but there is good material in them for the varsity next year. Mr. Farabaugh will be looking forward to experienced coaches but some inexperienced players next year.

The Li'l Indians skill, practice, and teamwork

This year our team took many honors on the grid-iron. The Indiana Eleven won six games and lost only two. Their losses were to the Ramblers from Windber and to the mighty undefeated Altoona football team. Indiana also won the Skyline Conference and was runner-up in the Western Pennsylvania Football Conference. Our football team of 1962 could have been termed a "power-house" because we had determination, size, and, most of all, good teamwork.

"Butch" Sekerak and Tim Wilt teamed up to score many touchdowns this year.

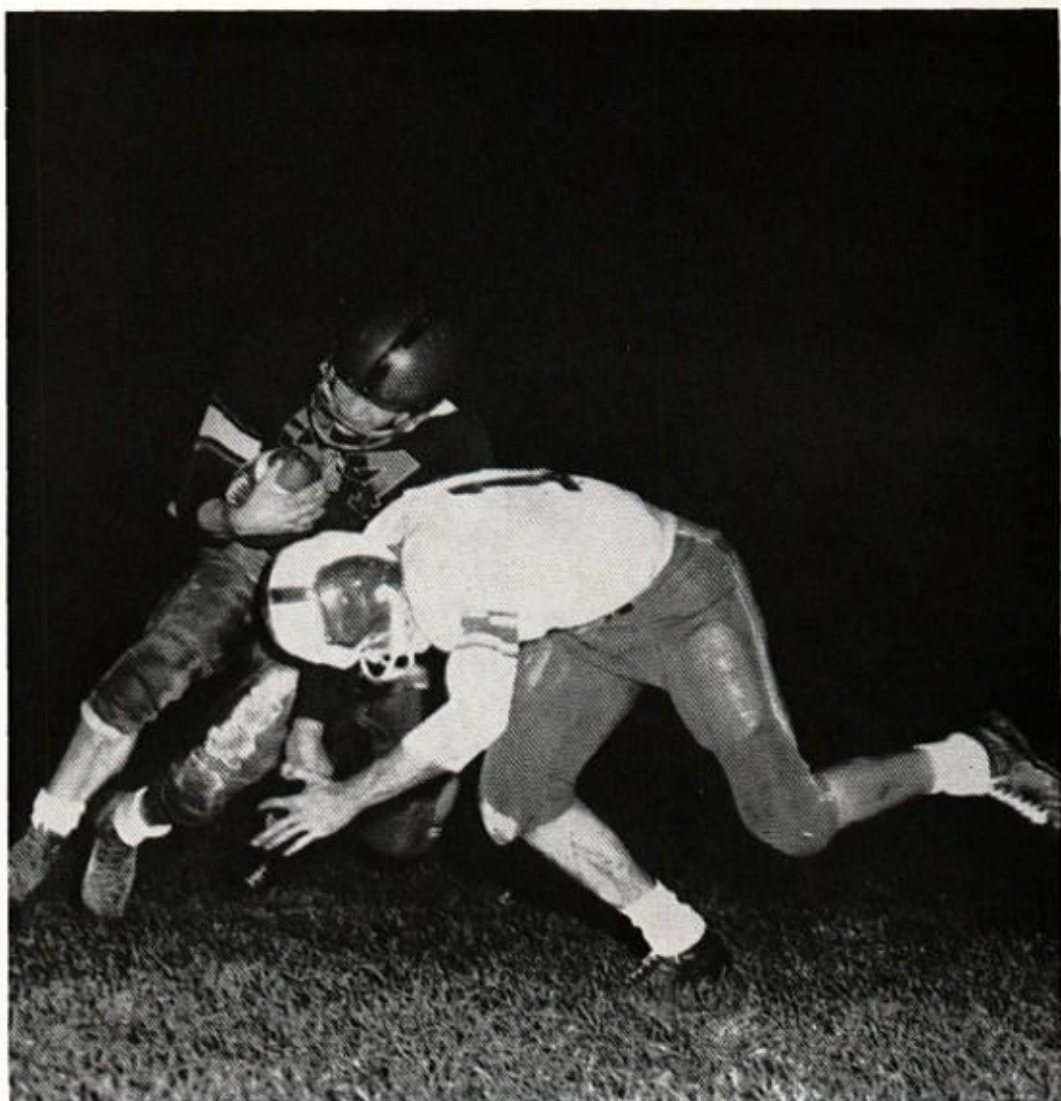

Margie Brody and Bob Stright continued the tradition of the I.J.H.S. Squaw and Indian, providing our football team with a boost of spirit this year.

create a great deal of school spirit.

Quite a few members on our football squad gained recognition. One of the most outstanding members of the team was "Big" Charlie Kuzneski. This year he was the recipient of the Windber Stadium Award. Charlie received this for being the most outstanding lineman to play in the Windber Stadium this year. As a side note, he is only the second junior in history to win this award; the first was Dave McNaughton who won it for Indiana High School in the football season of 1960. In addition, Tom Kennedy was chosen to be on the 1962 Skyline Conference All-Star team. Five of our starting eleven made first honors on the all-county football team. They were: Tim Wilt, halfback; Dan Zapach, end; Bill Zapach, fullback; Tom Kennedy, tackle; and Charlie Kuzneski, guard.

Indiana is proud of our basketball team this season. Coach Stapleton was chosen All-County Coach of the Year and Don Douds, Bill Zapach, and Dan Zapach were placed on the All-County team. Mr. Stapleton has been coaching I.J.H.S. dribblers since 1954 and has rolled up a 104-53 record.

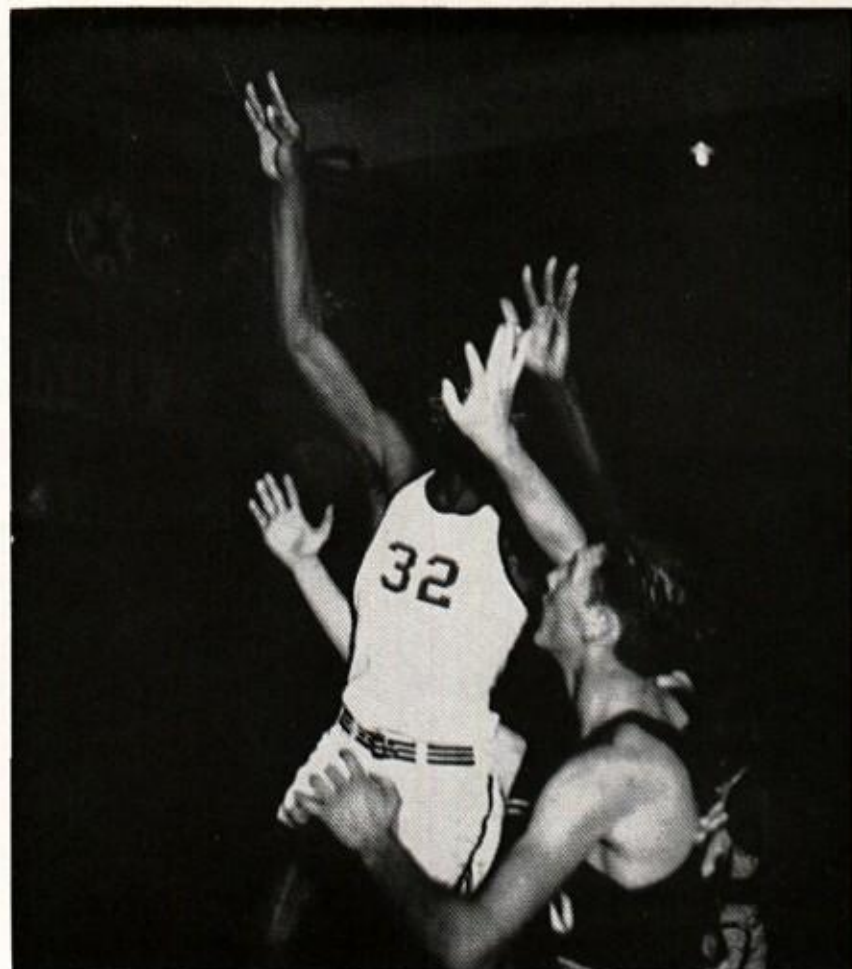

This year's 17-3 will be a welcome addition to that record. Don Douds led the county with 440 points and was selected for the second time as Most Valuable Player in the counties. Dan, Bill, and Don played in the Ford City All-Star Tournament.

This year's fine team led in the Tri-County League for most of the season but had to settle for a tie with Westmont at the close of the season. The fans were exceptionally faithful to the players this year and cheerfully undertook trips up to seven hours in bad weather with bus breakdowns. With this support our team was able to enter the District 6 playoffs; we beat Hollidaysburg but dropped the second elimination to Altoona in a thriller at the War Memorial in Johnstown.

Seniors Jim Layton, Larry Reed, and Jim Repine led the Indians to impressive wins over Blairsville, Conemaugh, Curwensville, Red Bank, and a heart stopper at Cresson. The wrestlers didn't fare well in the Holliday

Jack Kurtz's cindermen were undefeated in dual, tri, and quad meets this year but had a little trouble in the multi-team meets. Some of this trouble may be attributed to a general lack of experience stemming from having many underclassmen on the team. They did rack up a big win in the Indiana County Meet and secured the mile relay trophy for the second straight year by breaking our own record set just last year. Indiana entered the first ISC Invitational meet this year but lost to Ford City and Hempfield in the "A" competition.

Diamondmen fight and claw

Good, young material showed for the early baseball workouts this year along with some seasoned players. This combination proved valuable to the team this year and will help lessen the jolt of losing key seniors, Dan and Bill Zapach, Tony Sgro, Jack James, and Dick Pesci. Bill Johnson got the mound call against the hard-nosed opposition such as Altoona and Johnstown while timely Redskin hitting brought him the needed runs. Next year Butch Sekerak will be returning with his big bat and Bill Johnson and Dan Sherwin will bring strong pitching arms to the Indian diamond. Coach Davis's team will be packed with experience and out to get that Tri-County trophy.

Tony Sgro is ready to belt that ball for a base hit.

Pitcher Dan Sherwin caught a Cresson Indian wandering too far off first and is trying to pick him off. Sam Hoenstine is guarding the bag for the Indiana Indians.

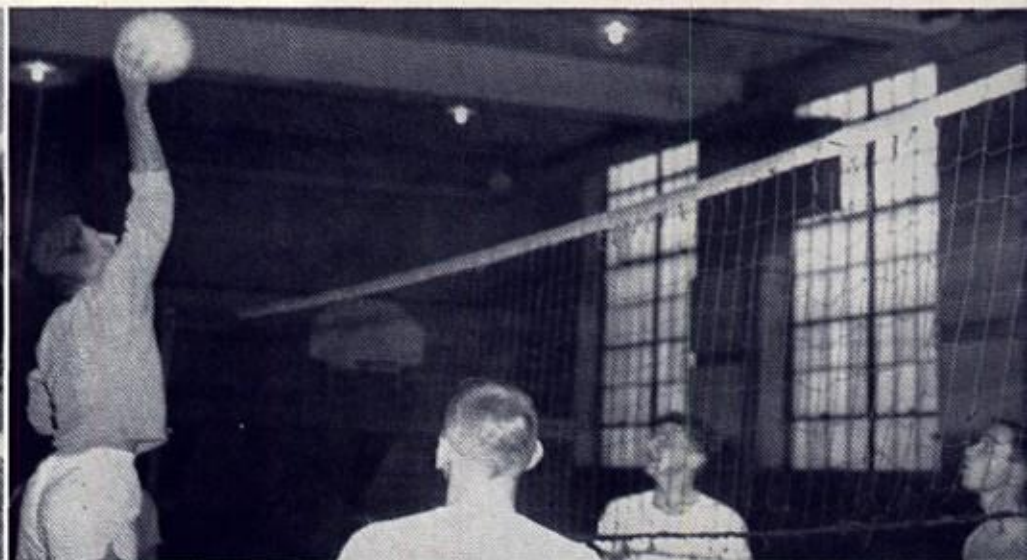

for the Section II crown.

The umpire, catcher, and Dan "Goldfish" Sherwin wait for the next delivery from the pitcher. Dan's pitching and hitting made him an asset to the team.

Fred Miller seems a little angry at Lee Harnish for crossing first.

The student teachers challenge the seniors at volleyball.

Indiana students engage in various lunch-time

Thrilling moments in intramural basketball games this year sparked the winter lunch-time activities. Number 13 is our own exchange student, Jose Lutrell from Panama.

Jose hits for two while referee Dick Widdowson checks for foul play.

activities—with and without faculty approval.

Many students have a genuine interest in athletics, but, for one reason or another, can not participate in interscholastic athletics. For this reason, and others, the intramural program was started at I.J.H.S. The program, headed by Mr. Wilt for boys and Mrs. Scerbo for girls has grown to include: softball, volleyball, deck tennis, wrestling, and basketball. Most homerooms have boys' and girls' teams for each sport except wrestling which is an individual effort for boys only. The student referees of Mr. Kurtz's Referees Club see that the games run smoothly. The faculty participated against all-star teams in nearly every sport. One school intramural, however, was rather poorly accepted by the faculty.

Sanny Collins, Maggie Bishop, Donna Hames, Barbara Wolfe, and Brenda Burkett are packing books for the Business Ed Department in Mr. Schell's office. And since it was the year of the Tom Swifties, "This is the end," they said finally.

In 36 years the cost of building a high school for Indiana, Armstrong, and White Township students has increased from $500,000 to $3¼ million. This price increase has resulted from World War II, the Korean War, and the decreased value of the dollar. Not only these economic forces, but also the cold war and the space age have contributed to the development of expanded educational facilities. The construction of the new building caused much excitement among our students, as they imagined the opportunities the new school will offer to its student body.

Memories of

The huge white columns in the front hall always will be a symbol of the old school. They will remind us of the bustling crowds and the great confusion in the halls at 3:40 every afternoon of our 180 day school term.

Looking down the hall of the new school gave each student who saw it a great feeling of pride and happiness. Their thoughts were filled with visions of walking down these halls in the future.

Standing so silent and serene, Indiana's new high school awaits the crowds that will soon occupy her. Next year her halls will be alive with students, and she will no longer appear so sleepy.

Many senior high students left the old building this year, but they will never forget it—talking to friends, trying to reach the drinking fountain, walking to class with the crowd. Pictures such as this will help keep memories alive.

the past unite with dreams of the future.

Cake, Best of the huck to you I sweetest, I'll never forget all those flat tires. We sure had fun and I hope you'll have a lot more. You better get that car on the road before they start using rocket ships instead.
I really think a lot of you so stay like you are - you ever. Remember K.D. and especially Big Mom. Love Always
